

U.S. Senate Race Will Be Close One

Most polls and other predictions say Democrat Terry Sanford and Republican James Broyhill are running neck-and-neck for the U.S. Senate seat. As Nov. 4 draws near, both are busily criss-crossing the state seeking votes.

Sanford is a former N.C. governor, lawyer and businessman.

He is best known for creating the community college system and the School of the Arts, funded by new sales taxes he requested.

He also served as president of Duke University and advanced the Research Triangle.

His opponent had the opportunity to fill the senatorial seat vacated earlier this year by the suicide of Sen. John East.

He had formerly served in the U.S.

House of Representatives, from 1962 till 1966. He was an executive with Broyhill Furniture Industries prior to his election to Congress.

The two distinguished candidates differ in foreign policy issues, with Sanford favoring support of Central America through the Organization of American States as a "showplace of freedom instead of another battlefield," and Broyhill defending aid to the Contras fighting the Nicaraguan government. Also Sanford calls the "Star Wars" program a concept, not a solution, and wants a negotiation of arms reduction and a freeze on space weapons and missile testing; Broyhill supports a bilateral, mutually verifiable arms reduction treaty with the Soviet Union and continued funding of "Star Wars."

County Has Winning Yard

Diane Baxley of the Long Bay Garden Club, gives a certificate of award to R.C. Dixon, right, and Ralph Varnam, members of the buildings and grounds department of Brunswick County. The club's yard of the month award went to the neat, beautifully landscaped 60 acres of the county government complex, which these men maintain, along with eight other employees. Dixon said they had made several improvements to beautify the grounds, and only wished the public would help by refraining from littering them.

Film Series Is Planned

The Elizabeth R film series will be shown in Brunswick County libraries during November and December. The six are: The Lion's Cub, The Marriage Game, Shadow in the Sun, Horrible Conspiracies, Enterprises of England, and Sweet England's Pride.

They will be shown in the West Brunswick Library in Shallotte Nov. 6, 13, and 20, and continue on Dec. 4, 11, and 18.

The films can be seen in the Southport Library Nov. 7, 14, and 21, and continue Dec. 5, 12, and 19.

All begin at 3 p.m. and run for 90 minutes. They are free and open to the public.

The series depicts the life of Queen Elizabeth I of England, a remarkably courageous woman and extraordinary politician.

Bauerschmidt Named

Dr. Michael Bauerschmidt of Holden Beach was named president of the Brunswick Heart Association, according to N.C. Affiliate, American Heart Association President Dr. Gettes.

Bauerschmidt, director of the emergency room staff at Brunswick Hospital, will lead the Brunswick Heart Assn. board of directors, chairpersons and volunteers.

Wins Color TV

T.A. Hall of Lumberton won a 13-inch color television in a drawing during the Festival By The Sea last weekend at Holden Beach. The set was donated by Lowe's of Whiteville.

Time For Trick Or Treat!

Ghosts, goblins and youngsters in search of treats will go roaming into the night Friday.

But not all trick or treaters will be going door to door.

Several Halloween carnivals offer what their promoters say is a safer alternative. Small fees may be charged.

Sunset Beach Volunteer Fire Department is hosting a carnival for youngsters in that area from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Friday. Featured will be games, food, a haunted house and special treats for participating children.

At Town Creek, the youth of Zion United Methodist Church are sponsoring a similar event in the fellowship hall of the church, located on Zion Church Road off U.S. 17 north of Winnabow. Hours are 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., and here, too, youngsters are promised "additional surprises."

Parents who are concerned about the safety of the treats their children actually receive can do something about it. The Brunswick Hospital in Supply will X-ray treats at no charge on Halloween night from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"We'll also have treats for the children. We might even give the parents something," said spokesman Pete Barnette. The treats will be healthy snacks, not candy. Trick or treaters are asked to use the front entrance and follow signs to the X-ray Department.

Youngsters who want to get ready for Halloween have a chance this week at their local branch library. Eight- to 13-year-olds in Shallotte carved pumpkins Tuesday, while carving sessions were planned Thursday at the Southport Library and Friday at the Leland Library. The time is 4 p.m. and youngsters are to bring their own pumpkins.

On Wednesday at 7 p.m., youngsters of all ages were invited to a Halloween hay ride, costume contest and party at the county complex in Bolivia, sponsored by the county parks and recreation department.

Women's Network Center To Sponsor Sexual Harrassment Workshop

Sexual Harrassment will be the topic of a workshop sponsored by the Brunswick Technical College Women's Network Center at 11 a.m. Friday in Room 106 at the main campus in Supply.

Jean Nelson, southeastern regional director of the National Council On The Status Of Women, will lead the one-hour workshop. The public is invited.

The workshop is the first in a series dealing with women and women's issues to be sponsored by the center, located in the college administration building in Supply.

Local Chamber Hosts Execs

Representatives from 30 North Carolina chambers of commerce attended the North Carolina Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives Fall Workshop hosted by the South Brunswick Islands Chamber of Commerce on Oct. 26 and 27.

Local chamber Director Anne Marie Scheltini was chairman of the program. It featured panel discussions on legislative issues and fund raising, an idea fair and discussion of economic education issues.

While in the area, the chamber executives played golf and tennis, participated in a poolside clam bake and nature walk on the beach, and had the option of attending the North Carolina Festival By The Sea at Holden Beach.

It was the first time the association had met in Brunswick County.

NAACP Sponsors Candidate Night

The Southport and Cedar Grove branches of the NAACP are sponsoring a meet-the-candidates program tonight (Thursday) at the Brunswick County Government Center in Bolivia.

Leslie Myrie of Southport is chairman of the program, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in the public assembly building.
