Shalotte Middle School Students Receive Awards

BY SUSAN USHER

More than 60 students received recognition in the form of certificates, medals or plaques at Shalotte Middle School's first awards day, held June 9 in the school gymnasium.

In past years, the transition from middle school to high school had been marked with a commencement program at which several awards were presented. However, Principal Mark Owens said it was decided that an awards day would be more appropriate.

Along with recognition for excellence in vocational, vocational and extracurricular activities, several special awards were presented, including the first Andrea Martin Memorial, in honor of an eighth grade girl killed in a shooting accident earlier in the year. Her mother, Judy Martin, was present to see the award presented to Tikila Morgan for outstanding service as a Student Council representative.

Other eighth-grade awards were presented as follows:

- Woodmen of the World History trophy: Beth Roberson.

- Algebra I: Pamela Detrie and Jennifer Richardson.

- Science: Jeff Ballou.

- Outstanding Language Arts Students: Jennifer Richardson, advanced language arts, and Tara Evans, language arts.

- Math: Tara Evans.

- You Can Do It (a challenge award for students with outstanding potential and possibilities): Jeff Ballou, Tammy Hatley and Latonya Bellamy.

- Newspaper: Jana Perkins.
