It's A Seat Belt Check

Student Government Association and Students Against Drunk Drivers members at West Brunswick High School were joined by N.C. Highway Patrol J.H. Kerr last Thursday in checking seat belts as students left the school parking lot. Each driver wearing a belt received a Hershey's kiss; those not received a "Dum-Dum" lollipop and a message encouraging them to get smart and use their seat belt. Above, driver Monekia Gause gets a "kiss" from inspector Laurinda Hill, while in the background Laurel Keesee checks a vehicle. Of the 150 or more vehicles checked, said SGA President Jason Benton, all but a few drivers were wearing their belts. "This was a good idea," said Trooper Kerr. "You never know if the person you talked to today might be in an accident next week and not be injured because they wore a seat belt."

WEIGHT CONTROL WORKSHOP
 FIND OUT WHAT'S EATING YOU!!!
 Do you seem to constantly find yourself eating when you are not even hungry? Have you tried many diets only to lose weight, and then after you start back to eat normally you gain not only the weight you lost but perhaps more? If you are tired of this vicious circle and are willing to admit you are powerless over your weight problem, we may have the answer for you. The average diet program usually only talks to you about what you are eating, not about what it is in your life that is eating you. Beginning Monday, March 1st at 6-7 PM or 7-8 PM we are starting an Eating Disorders Workshop to help those who are unable to be in control of their eating habits. This workshop is designed to teach you what the core problems are that have been eating at you for perhaps a good part of your life. We will talk about food plans versus diets and also show you what triggers to watch for so that you can successfully maintain control of this problem. The cost is $15 a week plus a $15 reg. fee.
 This workshop can also benefit people who seem to have disorders other than just overeating. Call us!
