Championship Courses? 21 And Counting!

South Carolina architect Tom Jackson designed the par-72 course, which boasts lush fairways carved from tall pines. A large residential community surrounds the course.

Fox Squirrel

Located in the heart of Boiling Spring Lakes, Fox Squirrel Country Club combines water, mounded fairways, sand traps and receptive greens.

Aggressive golfers will find several holes that reward well-placed drives with opportunities for birdies and eagles. The Bermuda grass fairways are carved around huge freshwater lakes and towering long leaf pines.

This 6,272-yard layout got its name from its inhabitants—the large, furry fox squirrels that often dart across fairways into the trees.

The Gauntlet

Golfers interested in a coastal course with a different look may want to check out The Gauntlet at St. James Plantation.

The 7,068-yard layout differs from most coastal courses but still offers views of salt marshes, thick woodlands and the inland waterway and ocean.

The Gauntlet, located three miles from Southport on N.C. 211, is an unmistakable creation of renowned architect P.B. Dye and features his typical blend of imagination and fiendishness.

Golfers can expect undulating fairways and greens, startling elevation changes and an outstanding finishing hole. The course received favorable mention in the Golf Digest "Best New Public Course" survey in January.

Lockwood Golf Links

Located along the scenic Lockwood Folly River and Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway, Lockwood Golf Links offers some of the most spectacular scenery you'll find at a championship golf course.

Towering oaks and tranquil ponds and lagoons frame the 6,800-yard Willard Byrd creation. Lockwood provides a stern test from the blue tees, and the white tees also offer a great challenge at 6,200 yards.

Tight fairways and water hazards place a premium on accuracy of tee shots and approaches. In 1988, the Holden Beach area layout was nominated as the best new course by Golf Digest.

Lion's Paw

Lion's Paw Golf Links is one of the area's newest course, opening in the summer of 1991. Another Byrd design, the 7,003-yard layout features rolling terrain and dramatic elevations.

The ruggedly beautiful course has several memorable par threes and an interesting combination of woods and water. Lion's Paw is located just a few miles from Sunset Beach on N.C. 904.

Marsh Harbour

A Dan Maples creation, Marsh Harbour Golf Links at Calabash has been highly regarded since it opened a decade ago.

The golf course is set on property that offers a unique combination of elevated ground bordered by low-lying marsh. Massive oaks draped with Spanish moss line the fairways, and the course offers a number of breathtaking views over marsh flats.

Marsh Harbour is one of the most popular courses for visitors and golf packages in the area. The links straddles the state line, giving golfers a chance to play in both Carolinas in one round.

Ocean Harbour

If it's water you want, Ocean Harbour Golf Links is the course for you.

The 7,000-yard layout sits on the southern-most tip of Brunswick County, a peninsula bordered by the Calabash River and Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway.

Architect Clyde Johnston used the incredible surroundings to create 15 water holes. Grass and sand bunkers and fairway mounds add to the attraction.

The fascinating course demands careful approach shots, because the ample greens are an open invitation to three-putts.

The entrance to Ocean Harbour is located on N.C. 179 between Calabash and Sunset Beach.

Ocean Isle Beach

Perhaps one of the best-kept secrets in Brunswick County is Ocean Isle Beach Golf Course, located on Four Mile Road just a short drive from the Ocean Isle Beach strand.

This excellent facility has been visited by thousands of tourists over the years who enjoy great golf
