Council Recognizes Eaton For His Service To Others

The South Brunswick Interchurch Council honored charter member R.C. (Carlos) Eaton with a plaque in recognition of his years of service.

Eaton was responsible for the building and grounds of the now-defunct Brunswick Adult Day Care, which the council originated. Both he and his wife of 63 years, Avalon, served on the centers' board of directors.

Eaton also was chairman of the council committees and served as liaison with Brunswick Electric Membership Corp. to assist Brunswick County residents in need.

The plaque was to have been presented to Eaton at the council's March meeting, but he was unable to attend due to ill health. His pastor, the Rev. John Landers, instead presented the plaque to him during worship service at Calvary Baptist Church in Shallotte.

The council honored Eaton at its April 5 meeting, expressing its love and gratitude to him personally.

Chairman Katherine Shawver praised Eaton for his devotion to helping others and his willingness to undertake any task asked of him.

Museum Announces Expansion

The Museum of the Cape Fear—which serves 20 counties, including Brunswick—has announced a major initiative to transform a single museum into an assemblage of historical, cultural and educational resources.

A name change also will take place. The institution will be known as the Museum of the Cape Fear Historical Complex, "to better reflect the expansion of facilities, programs and services," a news release states.

Betty R. McCain, secretary of the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources, outlined the plans during a luncheon at the museum last week. The five-year-old museum is at 801 Arsenal Ave., Fayetteville.

The five-acre historical complex is to be comprised of three elements: ■the 15,000-square-foot museum which will continue to present regional history from the Native Americans to the present day. More space will be added to the building to accommodate new exhibitions, a Children's Discovery gallery and classrooms;

■the 1897 E.A. Poe House. Following restoration, the National Register of Historic Places property will serve as a museum interpreting life of the late Victorian era. It will support public programming such as lectures, guided tours, hands-on children's activities and special events. The grounds will feature a Victorian garden.

■Arsenal Park, a 3.5-acre historical site carved out of the remains of the 19th-century North Carolina Arsenal. Originally begun in 1838 by the federal government, the arsenal represents the beginning of the region's longstanding relationship with the military. It served both the federal and confederate governments during its 27-year history. The park will feature an amphitheater for public programs, costumed guides and a renovated arsenal house, the site's only remaining building, to serve as interpretive center.

A three-year capital campaign is under way to raise $1.1 million in private and public funds.

The museum is a regional branch of the N.C. Museum of History. Its mission is to collect, preserve and interpret the history and culture of southern North Carolina. In less than five years, it has hosted more than 125,000 visitors, including 30,000 school children.

The museum is open Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., and Sundays, 1-5 p.m. For more information, call (919) 486-1330.

$20,000 NEEDED NOW

Symphony Deadline Nearing And Support's Still Short

An April 30 deadline is just a week away and local North Carolina Symphony supporters still need $20,000.

Symphony management has warned that the symphony's May 10 concert in Brunswick County as well as its annual concerts for students may be canceled if the shortfall is not covered.

Stephanna Tewey, president of the Brunswick County Chapter of the symphony, said the funds are needed to satisfy the deficit created by lack of support for the Christmas concert held in December, as well as to cover the cost of the upcoming May concert at Hatch Auditorium. In jeopardy also is the concert scheduled in November in the new Odell Williamson Auditorium at Brunswick Community College.

Tewey is seeking both ticket purchases and contributions by individuals and businesses. "Without both," she said, "Brunswick County could lose a most valuable asset in attracting people and businesses to our area, an influx that broadens and enhances the county tax base."

To learn more about the campaign to cover the deficit, in Shallotte contact Etherine Butler, 754-6706, or Marie or Jack Harrison, 754-8941, or in Southport, Stephanna Tewey, 457-5656.

Adopt-A-Pet Day Planned

Looking for a pet?

Dogs and cats of all sizes, breeds and ages will be available for adoption Saturday, April 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. during Adopt-A-Pet Day in the parking lot of Wal-Mart in Shallotte.

The animals, from the Brunswick County Animal Control shelter at Supply, "are in good condition, very friendly and will make excellent pets," stated Jan Reichenbach, public health educator.

The adoption fee will be $10 for puppies less than four months old and $16.50 for dogs older than four months.

A $5 fee will be charged for kittens less than four months old and a $13 fee for cats older than four months.

The fee for a rabies vaccination for all animals is $7.

In case of bad weather, the animal control shelter will be open during those hours. The shelter is located off N.C. 211 south of Supply.

The Brunswick County Cloggers have moved from the Republican Headquarters in Supply to Leland and have joined with the Azalea Coast Cloggers, according to Jimmy Watson, president and clogging instructor for the group.

Together they represent Brunswick and New Hanover counties as the largest clogging team in the area, he said. All are part of the ABC Cloggers, a drug-free group known as "Jimmy's Kids." The ABC Cloggers are the 1992 Tweetsie Railroad Grand Champions, the 1992 Cardinal State Clogging Grand Champions, the 1992 N.C. Clogging Council solo male, female and couple grand champions.

Watson said only his group may use the name Brunswick County Cloggers, which is registered.
