Shalotte Middle Team Will Advance To State Olympiad

A team of 15 Shalotte Middle School students will compete next month in the State Science Olympiad at Garner Senior High School, a first for the school.

Team A, made up of seventh and eighth grade students, qualified by placing fourth in the regional Science Olympiad held Feb. 5 at Laney High School in Wilmington.

"It was a written test," said Trest. "We were surprised. We thought it would be questions they would ask us. There was no way you could prepare ahead for it."

The two were required to compute math solutions, read and interpret scientific writings as well as answer direct questions.

Shalotte Middle's foursome didn't win Pentathlon, which required more than scientific knowledge. "It required physical agility and dexterity as well," said Jackson.

Some advance practice paid off for Jaime Atwell, Chrissy Hewett and Jackson in "Picture This," a Pictionary-type game in which teammates take turns illustrating assigned scientific terms such as "air pollution" and "DNA" and having fellow team members guess the term.

Atwell said the trio worked out in advance a set of symbols to use, especially for suffixes and prefixes. For "geo-," for instance, they used the shape of a Chevrolet Geo, while "chemical" was represented by a beaker.

In Science Crime Busters, Jennifer Bailey and Chrissy Hewett, a last-minute substitute, placed first by quickly solving a "crime" using clues such as a list of suspects and their alibis, a description of the crime and crime scene, and results of lab tests on hair, fibers and liquids.

"It was fun," said Jennifer. Team participation in the Olympiad was supported by the UNC-based Southeast Partnership, N.C. Science and Mathematics Alliance.
