Moore Attends Symposium

May Moore, 1993-94 Brunswick County Teacher of the Year, recently participated in the first statewide Teacher of the Year conference.

Moore teaches seventh grade math at South Brunswick Middle School. She was one of 80 of the state's top teachers to attend the two-day meeting. The Goals 2000 Teacher of the Year Symposium offered them a chance to network with fellow Teachers of the Year and to meet legislators, Department of Public Instruction officials and others who shape state education policies.

Gov. Jim Hunt praised the teachers for their innovative leadership and excellence in the classroom and urged them to continue working for changes that will benefit their students.

"I see you all forming a network of excellence, a network that can push new ideas, energy and enthusiasm out to every classroom across our state," said Hunt, adding his own pledge to "continue fighting" to see that teachers are paid and treated like professionals.

Brunswick County's 1994-95 Teacher of the Year is Diana Healy of Union Elementary School.

Perfect Grades

Five Brunswick County students have received the Chancellor's Achievement Award at UNC-Wilmington for the spring semester 1994 after earning perfect 4.0 grade point averages for 15 or more credit hours.

They are Shelley Denise Lancaster and Barbara Ellen Leonard, both of Shallotte; Teresa Gayle Royal McCray of Supply; Hugh Franklin Cox of Southport; and James Stacey Whittington of Leland.

Smith Is Scorer

Ghislain G. Smith, French teacher at the Crary School, has been selected to participate in the summer scoring of the North Carolina end-of-grade, open-ended reading test. The scoring will take place at the N.C. School of Science and Mathematics in Durham.

The N.C. Department of Public Instruction has nearly 5 million open-ended responses to score. Smith agreed to take part in the final phase of the new assessment. It is her second year to be invited to score the new test.

Makes 'Who's Who'

Margie H. Reinhardt of Sunset Beach has been selected for inclusion of her biography in Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1993-94, which will be published this fall.

Reinhardt is a rising junior at West Brunswick High School and is treasurer of her youth group at St. James Episcopal Church in Shallotte.

Only 5 percent of all high school students receive 'Who's Who' recognition annually, with nominations based on achievements in athletics, academics and extracurricular activities.

Student Trooper
J. Adam Stanley of Shallotte was one of 30 high school students from across the state who were "graduated" June 24 from the N.C. American Legion Student Trooper Program.

They were "sworn in" at the Highway Patrol's Training Center in Garner and will report back to their peers in the community on what they learned.

The program is designed to create a better understanding of the law enforcement community by young people. Students participated in physical training and a variety of instructional courses, including firearms safety, drug detection and precision driving.

To qualify, rising seniors submit a 500-word essay expressing their interest in law and order, be of "good moral character" and "demonstrate qualities of patriotism and leadership."

Seven Earn Degrees

Seven Brunswick County residents were among those receiving degrees from North Carolina Central University at the Durham school's May 14 commencement exercises.

Degree recipients were Natasha Godwin, Little Prong Road, Ash, bachelor of arts, history; Michael Galloway, Route 2, Bolivia, bachelor of science, criminal justice; Pauline Hankins, Route 2, Bolivia, juris doctor cum laude, law; Katrainer Brown, Route 1, Leland, bachelor of science, nursing; Andrea Pelham, Maco Road, Leland, bachelor of arts, history; Sonya Burney, Shallotte, bachelor of business administration; and Tania Butler, Shallotte, bachelor of science cum laude, biology.

On Elon Dean's List

Stephen Matthew Lancaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Lancaster of Supply, was named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Elon College.

The dean's list includes students with no grade below a B and a grade point average of at least 3.40 in a minimum of 12 semester hours.

Elon is a private, coeducational college in the Piedmont. It enrolls approximately 3,200 students.

Simmons In Marines

Marine Pvt. James L. Simmons, son of Eunice L. Simmons of and Lester Simmons of Longwood, recently completed recruit training.

During the training cycle with Recruit Training Regiment, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C., recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

Simmons is a 1993 graduate of West Brunswick High School.

Boldt Recognized With Navy Medal

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Trena K. Boldt, daughter of William I. and Marvian Mullis of Supply, recently received the Navy Achievement Medal.

Boldt was cited for superior performance of duty while serving as pharmacy supervisor at Naval Hospital, Lemoore, Calif., where she is currently assigned. The achievement medal "singles out an individual servicemember for her initiative in making a significant contribution to the accomplishment of the command's mission," according to a Navy news release.

Boldt was directly responsible for changes to the pharmacy's operating procedures which decreased patient waiting time by 25 percent.

The award, presented during formal ceremonies, "is official recognition for Boldt's outstanding achievements and devotion to duty," the release states.

The 1978 graduate of East Gaston High School of Mount Holly joined the Navy in January 1979.

Suzanne Jones Is Sparkman Scholar

Suzanne Jones, daughter of Sue Jones of Ocean Isle Beach and the late Sidney Edward Jones, has been awarded a Sparkman Leadership Scholarship at Saint Mary's for the 1994-95 academic year. Jones is a rising college sophomore at Saint Mary's.

The Caroline Hodges Sparkman Leadership Scholarship Fund was established by the late Alton Sparkman of Lynchburg, Va., to honor his wife, a member of the Class of 1929. These scholarships are among Saint Mary's most prestigious and are awarded to students who are "outstanding in their extracurricular contributions to school, church and community," a Saint Mary's news release states.

Saint Mary's is a two-year liberal arts college and four-year preparatory school for women. It is in Raleigh.

Frink On Dean's List

Michael D. Frink was among 3,485 undergraduates earning dean's list honors at N.C. State University during the spring semester.

To make the dean's list, students must earn an academic average of 3.25 or higher if they are carrying 15 or more hours of course work.

Frink is majoring in electrical engineering and is working with BellSouth in Charlotte for the second semester as an outside plant engineer. He is the son of Milton and Gladys Frink and the grandson of William and Lettie Frink of Sunset Beach and Bernice Marlow of Calabash. He is a 1990 graduate of West Brunswick High School.

Pigott Trains

Navy Fireman Paul S. Pigott, son of Susan A. Hern of Leland, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid.

He is a 1989 graduate of North Brunswick High School.
