

Probation Revoked, Man Imprisoned After Knife Assault

A 23-year old Boiling Spring Lakes man was sentenced to two years in prison and had a previous two-year suspended sentence activated last week after being found guilty of slashing a woman with a kitchen knife.

Harley Ray Beacraft Jr. of Elm Road was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon against a woman with the same last name who lives in the Fiddler's Creek subdivision in Southport. He had been charged with "inflicting serious injury upon (the victim) by cutting her on the face." Court records indicate the attack occurred July 24.

Beacraft was on probation under a suspended sentence for two previous convictions of assault on a female and one charge of injury to real property. He was accused of breaking a bedroom window and knocking a hole in a bedroom door, according to the arrest warrant.

One of the special conditions of Beacraft's probation ordered him not to "assault, threaten or harass the prosecuting witness."
