

Six Generations

Winners Again

VFW Post 7288 Auxiliary President Cathy Somers and Post Commander Bill Werner show the plaque from the J.D. Miller Fund which will stay with the post for a second year. The plaque is awarded to the post which dedicates the most hours to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Haysville and was presented at the district meeting held at Post 7288 on Aug. 14. J.D. Miller was past 5th District commander and devoted eight years as hospital chairman. Post 7288 was the first to receive the honor.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Williams Wins First Place In Communications From N.C. Association Of Agricultural Agents

Bruce Williams, area specialized agent in turf, has won first place in video/television communications from the N.C. Association of County Agricultural Agents.

WILLIAMS

The "Plant Doctor" television segment appears every Thursday on WECT-TV in southeastern coastal North and South Carolina.

He received first place in the video/television category for public information communications programs in North Carolina as judged an awards committee appointed by the N.C. Association of County Agricultural Agents. A $50 cash award and plaque accompanied the state award during the annual meeting in Rocky Mount on July 26.

He works for the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service in Brunswick, New Hanover and Pender counties. His "Plant Doctor" column appears weekly in The Brunswick Beach.

Williams and his wife Marsha live in Southport.

Going To Art School

Roy C. Meares II of South Brunswick High School has been accepted at Savannah College of Art and Design.

The College of Art and Design is ranked in the top ten percent of all college and universities nationwide by Peterson's Competitive Colleges.

Chosen For 'Who's Who'

Melissa M. Banks of Supply has been nominated for the 28th annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

BANKS

She is the daughter of Patricia Banks McMillian and the late Norman Leonard Banks.

As a "Who's Who" student, she will be eligible to apply for a $1,000 scholarship from $125,000 to be awarded this year.

"Who's Who" recognizes the achievements of outstanding students. Nominations are received from more than 15,000 high school faculty members, scholarship agencies, youth club administrators and other educators and advisors.

Causey Completes Ventures Program

Mark Causey III of Supply was among students successfully completing the Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics program on the UNC-Wilmington campus this summer.

CAUSEY

He is the son of Buster and Gwen Causey of Little Macedonia Road, Supply.

Summer Ventures is a four-week enrichment program for rising junior and senior high school students with talent and interest in science and mathematics. The program is the largest cost-free one of its kind in the country.

It is offered on six campuses of the University of North Carolina and is administered by the N.C. School of Science and Mathematics. Summer Ventures students live on the campuses of the host institutions and participate in research-oriented courses designed and taught by university faculty and public school teachers.

Students are required to conduct a research project and to report the results of their work at the end of the program. About 700 students attend Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics each year and are selected from an applicant pool of more than 1,700.

Extension To Host Pesticide Applicators' Recertification Meeting

The N.C. Cooperative Extension Service will host a meeting of private pesticide applicators on Thursday, Sept. 15, at 7 p.m. in the extension office at Bolivia.

Farmers and others licensed as private pesticide applicators must be recertified every three years to maintain certification. Those whose licenses expire in 1994 must be recertified before Sept. 30.

"Individuals who did not attend a recertification meeting this year should plan to do so," said David L. Nash, agricultural extension agent.

Those planning to attend the Sept. 15 meeting must pre-register by calling the Brunswick County Cooperative Extension Office at 253-4425.

Long Beach To Be Site Of Annual Arts Festival

Labor Day will be celebrated at Middleton Park, Long Beach, on Saturday, Sept. 3, with the 5th annual Arts and Crafts Festival.

The event, sponsored by the Oak Island Art Guild, will take place from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, with a rain date the next day from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

About 75 exhibitors will have booths at the festival, with the majority coming from Brunswick County. Included are artists Phyllis Riley, Marilyn Harness, Frank Hewett, Evonne Phillips, Carl Pope, Joanna Hancock, Kay Owens, William Fitzgerald, Judy Browne and Patricia James Semmens.

Potters entered are Bobby Furr, Susan Reinecke and Patsy Genovese. Ceramists are Polly Peoples, Pat Swinsky and Shelley Gunner-son. Gene Tomlinson will exhibit stained glass and paintings.

Others crafts people will offer woodworking, baskets, needlework, quiltings, banners, wearable art and other items.

For more information, call Frances Allen at (910)278-3708.
