

Kindred Spirits

Our coast's most alluring attraction may not be a specific place so much as an intangible feeling of harmony between man and nature exemplified by the Kindred Spirits mailbox on tiny uninhabited Bird Island. The mailbox first appeared in 1981. According to local lore, a driftwood bench for weary visitors and the mailbox are guarded by The Great Blue Heron and move from place to place depending upon the forces of man and nature. Still, the mailbox and the journals it houses have weathered many storms.

This 14X20 signed & numbered limited edition reproduction of an original watercolor by artist Timberley Adams captures the serenity of our coast in general and Bird Island in particular. Available for $32 (plus $5 postage & handling)
