

Littlest Winners

Winners in the youngest age divisions of the Festival By The Sea Halloween Carnival Costume Contest need a little help from the grown-ups to accept their awards. In photo above, winners in the 0-3 age group were (from left) Ryan Lancaster, second place, as a box of popcorn; Aaron Donald Zettlemoyer, first place, as Elvis; and C.J. Ward as a little angel. In photo below, winners in the 4-7 age group were (from left) Abby Chamberlain as Dorothy, first place; Elizabeth Hayes as Little Bo Peep, second place; and Noah Jobe, third place, as a goblin. More than 120 competed in the contest.

Nine Teams Dig Into Sand Sculpture Competition At Festival By The Sea

A storm cloud hovered overhead as kids of all ages dug, patted, dribbled and sprayed their entries in the 1994 N.C. Festival By The Sea sand sculpture contest Sunday.

Both the rain and the encroaching tide held off long enough for visitors and judges to admire their handiwork.

"They were all wonderful; we had trouble," said Nellie Zytvenko, a judge along with Barbara Davis and Gus Scott.

All nine entries—four in the under-12 division and five in the 12 and over division—received recognition in the contest held on the strand across from Campground By The Sea.

Gary, Jaron and Erica Cook, joined by Robert Botzenmeyer of Charlotte, claimed overall top adult honors with their carefully carved miniature lighthouse surrounded by smaller sand creatures. First place in the adult division went to a deep relief sea scallop fashioned by Johnny and Sylvia Grice of Bennettsville, S.C. Also recognized were a turtle entered by Kelly and Stacy Sparrow, second place; while Hope Tyner and Joseph and Christopher Hart tied with Brian and Daniel Nixon of Supply for third place.

In the children's division, a popular Power Ranger figure finished in orange paint claimed overall top
