

Defendant Hears Terms Of Suspended Sentence, Opts For Jail

After hearing the terms of his suspended jail sentence, a Supply youth decided to spend three days behind bars instead of 18 months on probation after pleading guilty in Brunswick County District Court to a charge of marijuana possession last week.

Dallas Royce Sellers, 17, of Supply Street was charged with felonious possession of marijuana with intent to sell and deliver a half-ounce of the drug.

In a plea bargain between prosecutors and defense attorney Steve Yount, Sellers agreed to plead guilty to a misdemeanor possession charge.

Sellers was sentenced to 10 days in jail, suspended on the condition that he perform 24 hours of community service and pay $150 for his court-appointed lawyer and $160 in court costs and community service fees.

The judge also ordered Sellers to obtain a substance abuse assessment and to submit to warrantless searches and tests for drug use while on probation for the next year and a half.

When the judge finished explaining the terms of his suspended sentence, Sellers changed his mind and elected to serve the active jail term. He was given credit for the seven days he spent in jail after his arrest.

Judge Tom Aldridge presided over four days of District Court in Bolivia last week. Assistant District Attorney Lillian Salcines and Charlotte Lawyer Wayne Long prosecuted. Marie Jordan served as courtroom clerk.
