GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

One short month of time has gone, One long month of grief and sorrow I've borne, But my love is just the same As when you said the last goodbye.

Mother, my heart aches for you, For of all others you were most dear to me, But I know you are happy in that home of bliss, Your sorrows are over, you have earned your rest.

But, Mother, I long for your love and care, Life without you is so hard to bear, You were so faithful, loving and true No one was ever so kind and thoughtful as you.

If I could call you back for just one day And say to you so many things I failed to say! But it is too late, it can never be said; Your gentle spirit to God has fled Her Daughter, MRS. D. J. ROGERSON.

Good Farmhouse Better Than Medieval Castle

A man's home is still his castle as in the days of moats and battlements when it was a protection against unfriendly and warlike neighbors. "As in the past," says Wallace Ashby of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, "protection from heat and cold, rain and snow, are still primary functions of the house, but a well-planned modern farmhouse in comfort, protection, and convenience can be far ahead of the old-time castle."

"Enemies," he says, "are still with us. There are termites which attack the house itself, there are the house-fly and the mosquito which may carry disease, the rats and mice which destroy property and also may carry disease at times, fire and decay, and other enemies that may take away the very house itself. We might add such adverse factors as discomfort, and drudgery, which are still to be found in thousands of farmhouses."

"Many farmhouses will be built or remodeled this year," says Mr. Ashby in calling attention to the wealth of information now available on modern farmhouse construction.

An example is Farmers' Bulletin 1738 "Farmhouse Plans"—40 plans prepared by the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering in cooperation with the various State colleges. Others are Farmers' Bulletin 1749, "Modernizing Farmhouses"—plans of several farmhouses actually remodeled; Farmers' Bulletin 1649, "Construction of Chimneys and Fireplaces" and Farmers' Bulletin 1698, "Heating the Farm House." These bulletins and a list of others which deal with the construction of farmhouses and other farm buildings may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Workers who have left an employer without giving him their Social Security Account number, will be helping the employer, helping themselves and helping the Social Security Board if they will see that their former employers know their account numbers. Employers must know the account number of each worker, so they can make a report to the government which will insure every worker's wage record being credited with the wages he has earned. Workers should keep their account cards.

Hot Weather is Here— Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pack twenty-five cents. At drug stores. (Adv.)

JOHN, YOUR HAIR IS A FRIGHT! HERE, USE MY FOM-OLI

Wives, mothers, sisters—they're often forced to point the way to hair health to their men folk! For women know that a healthy head produces handsome hair! And that's why women everywhere are pointing to Fom-ol, the remarkable foaming oil shampoo which first nourishes the scalp, then takes the dull, parched hair and brings it back to glowing health. Fom-ol is so economical, a little goes a long way. Ask your druggist for the regular 50c size. Or, write for a generous trial bottle, enclosing 10c to cover packing and postage.
