RESTORE HISTORIC
CHURCH IN MEXICO

Edifice in Which Independence Was Cradled.

Washington, D. C.—The half-ruined building where Mexican independence was cradled over a century ago is being restored. It is the parish church of Chilpancingo, capital of the state of Guerrero, 95 miles inland from southern Mexico's Pacific coast.

"Hitherto motorists have been inclined to zip through the town of Chilpancingo without a second glance," says the National Geographic society. "It lies two-thirds of the way westward on the 'roller coaster' highway which swoops over six ridges and deep valleys between Mexico, D. F., and Acapulco, the nation's Pacific 'Atlantic City.' Most travelers do not stop, for speeding through will permit them to accomplish the trip in one long day. Moreover, Chilpancingo lacks the lure of intriguing quaintness, for it appears quite modern. Two earthquakes within the present century made necessary rebuilding operations which produced a town with a rather modern air.

"A historic landmark, however, will hereafter bait Chilpancingo's hook for passing travelers. The church, in course of restoration, has the double attraction of having housed the first democratic congress of Mexico and having been the scene of framing its declaration of independence.

Two Heroes Recalled.

"At the invitation of Morelos—a mule-driver turned priest, then rebel general—Mexican provinces which had thrown off Spanish rule sent elected delegates to Chilpancingo's church, and for unliberated provinces Morelos appointed other representatives. Their first congress convened on September 14, 1813. Almost two months later, on November 6, their declaration of independence was ready. New laws abolished slavery, caste distinctions, and the tribute demanded from Indians as subject tribes.

"Chilpancingo marked the turning point in the success of Morelos' share in the revolution. From there he marched away into a series of defeats. Finally, while holding back a royalist army at a narrow defile in the mountains to allow his men to escape, he was captured and shot.

"His revolutionary mantle fell figuratively on the shoulders of Vicente Guerrero, who used his knowledge of the mountains around Chilpancingo for surprise attacks with his rebel followers, and equally as surprising escapes. Traveling secret trails, he found ways of furthering and financing the revolution cause. Once he took the bronze church bells of a mountain village to be melted into cannon, paying for them only with a note of thanks.
Admiring Indian followers would not exchange the note for fuller payment. His birthplace at Tixtla, nearby, gives Chilpancingo a further claim to the attention of Mexican patriots.

Patriots Honored.

"The mountainous area which this second leader frequented was named for him, the state of Guerrero, with Chilpancingo as its capital. The town's central location gave it a claim for this honor, although its size still is around 10,000. Its full name is Chilpancingo de los Bravos, or Ciudad Bravos, in honor of the revolutionary heroes.

"As state capital, and as modern community profiting by older mistakes which the earthquake wiped out, Chilpancingo is cleaner and less crowded than many of its neighbors.
A spacious plaza, hotels with shaded patios, and new buildings are in keeping with its official position. Not far away, Indian boys are taught the ways of present-day life in a federal school.

"The town lies in a small valley scooped out of the last high range of the Sierra Madre del Sur on the Pacific side. Almost a mile above sea level, this lofty valley is comfortable and fertile. Indians on mule-back amble to town on market days, each bringing his small stock of gourds, beans, Indian corn, potatoes, or green and red peppers. Little piles of fruits and vegetables, neatly and sometimes geometrically laid out on mats in the market place, are supervised by women in the universal dark blue woolen shawl, or rebozo.

"Chilpancingo's little valley, although it figures not at all in the nation's export trade, produces a wealth of fruits and excellent cotton, cocoa, and coffee. Mineral wealth, too, is hinted of, and legends of Montezuma's gold still survive.

"The town blossoms with native color during its annual Indian festival in December. Primitive music, monotonous beating on the tall, upright hollow-log drums, and ritual dances with masks erase any impression that Chilpancingo is absolutely a modern town. The Dance of the Tiger, so old that no one remembers its original meaning, is performed in ferocious-looking masks of yellow with protruding fangs and great eyes."

Swimming Suits de Luxe

Some Smart Models

IN the designs for bathing suits.
Europe keeps one jump or rather one stroke ahead of the world. The most famous fashion experts are engaged to produce these creations.
The designing of bathing suits presents unusual problems. The suits must be very simple in line and so concealed that they will not hamper the free movements of the swimmer.
The range of materials available is besides limited. Despite these handicaps, the designer is expected to create suits at once original and striking.

Following the new fashions in dresses, the bathing suits for 1937 will be dominated by exceedingly bright colors and variety of form.
The plain color "Unit-costumes" are passing. Complying with the trend in dresses, the breast parts are very carefully fashioned. The backs are cut very low. One of the most striking of the new fashions in swim suits is the new "slip form." Some of the new creations to be displayed at the Leipzig Fair, held August 29th-March 2, are shown herewith.
