Let's "Buy At Home"

The Perquimans Weekly has consistently advocated the "Buy At Home" habit. It has urged the people of Hertford to patronize local merchants and business houses rather than to send their money out of this county where it will remain to build up some other community.

It is impossible for a newspaper, however, to create a spirit of civic loyalty unless those who have goods or service to sell appreciate the responsibility which rests upon them. This involves the establishment of fair prices, based upon efficient service, and, in addition, intelligent propaganda to inform the buying public of the values to be received.

Crude Rubber Arrives

The first crude rubber to arrive in the United States since early 1942 recently arrived in this country when a ship brought 8,100 tons of rubber from Batavia, Singapore and Malayan ports that have been inaccessible for years because of Japanese domination. It is reported that about 300,000 tons of rubber will arrive during the coming year as sources in the Far East become available and what is equally important, that the shipments of crude rubber will be divided by a raw materials board on an international basis, with the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, China and the Netherlands sharing in the supply.

The crude rubber is expected to revitalize the American rubber industry, which is well equipped to use it to advantage with the synthetic product. While no accurate estimate of production is available, spokesmen for the rubber industry explain that the new supply will accelerate production of rubber articles and create some new jobs.

The synthetic industry, it is said, will not be ruined but rather helped by the possibility that a combination of synthetic and natural rubber will produce a greater number of products than would be possible without the crude rubber.

Old Clothes Can Save Lives

Millions of men, women and children in areas bombed and devastated during the war desperately need clothing to cover their bodies and protect them from the cold weather that visits their country in winter. There is not only a shortage of clothing, but also a scarcity of fuel. Helpless families huddle together in an effort to keep warm in unheated buildings, despite insufficient clothing and bedding.

This is the report of observers in Europe and in some areas of the Far East. The biting cold tortures the innocent and helpless victims of warfare, causing untold suffering in neutral countries, as well as in enemy lands.

Last April, the people of the United States participated in a clothing collection which provided garments for 25,000,000 human beings. This time the Victory Clothing Collection will continue through February 10th, with the endorsement of many national organizations, including educational, labor, veterans, religious and service groups.

The individual is asked to give every usable old garment, every piece of unused goods, discarded bedding and whatever they may have that can possibly be used to clothe those who have nothing as good. It is assumed that almost every person can find some discarded garments that can be contributed to the relief of human suffering.

All that we have to do, if we will, is to reverse the situation and imagine that millions of people in this country, after a devastating war, faced the cold winter weather without fuel and without enough clothing to keep themselves warm. What would we think of European people if they were unwilling to send us their discarded clothes, bedding and material?

What will we think of ourselves, in after years, if, through carelessness, neglect or indifference, we fail to respond to these human needs and permit millions of people, especially women and children, to suffer not only the pangs of cold, but also to die from diseases that inevitably accompany prolonged exposure.

and children, to suffer not only the pangs of cold, but also to die from diseases that inevitably accompany prolonged exposure.

"I'm warnin' you ... not so much BRIMM on those onions ... the whole county's in tears!"

BRIMM

SWIFT'S PLUS-VALUE PLANT FOOD

We must admit that even BRIMM can't bring up such an enormous onion. But BRIMM does give your soil the extra crop-making elements it takes to bring out the best in truck crops—from rhubarb to rutabaga!

BRIMM is not "just another fertilizer." It is a scientifically formulated plant food made of top-quality ingredients that gives your special crops a balanced diet. The result is stronger plants that yield bigger and pay bigger!

BRIMM supplies essential extra elements BRIMM is a plus-value plant food because it furnishes not only the three basic plant nutrients —nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, but correctly proportioned quantities of the extra elements needed for bigger yields and improved quality crops as well! Here is the explanation for the fine, big, profitable truck crops good growers are making with BRIMM. BRIMM is properly cured, scientifically controlled, and double-mixed to insure uniformity throughout. It's free-flowing, too—easy to handle.

Now is the time to order BRIMM from your local Authorized Swift Agent.
