THE PASSING OF FERNANDO CARTLAND WHITE

As I knew him, great in heart great in mind, great in the love of his people.

He was the youngest son of Rob ert J. and Elizabeth White and grew to manhood in the Whiteston community of the Nicanor section, having moved here from Pasquotank County at a very young age. He lived in this community until 1925, when he moved to Belvidere, N. C. His two sisters and two older brothers preceded him to the grave.

In addition to farming, which he did all of his adult life, he followed various other occupations. In his early manhood he shod horses, did blacksmith work and wood work in his workshop. He later entered into the mercantile business, and owned and operated a saw mill, grist mill, cotton gin, buying and selling products from these enterprises. For a number of years he was an undertaker and never refused to bary any one, white or colored, if they were unable to pay at that time. He buried both white and colored people. For a few years he operated a boat line, moving freight on Perquimans River and the Albemarle Sound. He owned and operated a network of telephone lines throughout the county for a number of years.

In addition to all of these activities he found time to indulge in his most loved pleasure-Music. He loved music in every form, he was a very good singer himself and could play almost any instrument and he especially was fond of the Autoharp and played many times for church services and whenever friends would visit in the home he would take a great pleasure in playing for them and everyone enjoyed his delightful renditions of sacred music.

He employed many people to work him in his various businesses. One man began working for him when a boy only 13 years old some fifty years ago and has been working for him ever since with the exception

Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Chappell and then married Bertha V. Smith, a Quaker minister from Randolph County, who survives him.

He was a valuable member of the Friends Church at Up River, when he lived at Whiteston and at Piney were dinner gueusts of Mr. and Mrs. Woods, since living at Belvidere, he took an active part in the business as well as the religious affairs of the Linda spent Thursday as guests of Church. He served on many commit-her mother, Mrs. Louisa Ward of tees and boards. His judgements were tees and boards. His judgements were good and his advice was sought much in Church affairs as well as business matters. He was a member of the Permanent Board of the North Carolina Yearly Meeting of Friends and with two exceptions he attended every yearly meeting for the past 35 years.

He was a temperance man and would do all in his power to help keep his county and state in the dry columns. When he operated a store he would not sell tobacco in any form. None of his children dissipate or use obacco in any form.

Fernando was one of the most friendly, obliging and accommodating men I have ever known. He made friends by being friendly. He kept friends by being faithful, he was truly a friend to man.

His presence will be sorely missed, but his influence and character will
