FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1950.

The individual who is willing to learn from experience can become better educated than the collegian who has a few degrees for hard work on his books.

The civilization of this nation can be gauged by the fact that the people spend millions of dollars every fall to watch the players on the gridirons of the nation.

After carefully perusing the writings of a number of political prognosticators, we have come to the conclusion that most of them write what they agitate rather than what is happening.

The greatest asset in Perquimans County is its people not its wealth. Let's cultivate our greatest asset.

Worry May Be An Enemy

"Worrying over the end of the world," in connection with the hydrogen bomb, endangers "our national health and vitality," declares former Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who says that "the growing hysteria and worry-mongering" will deprive us of the creative drive "we need to help save the world."

The chief architect of our amazing victory in the Pacific put his finger on one of the weaknesses of the nation at the present time. There is no reason why we should fear the consequences of the hydrogen bomb and, certainly, it presents no threat great enough to persuade us to relinquish our efforts for a world we think is the right kind of a world.

It may be that a hydrogen bomb, or a collection of them, will destroy human lives sometime in the future. Even so, there is nothing for us to do but to stand firm in our faith and take the consequences. If we fall into a panic because we fear our possible fate, the world will be taken over by those who have the courage to act resolutely.

Should Produce Proof

The charges made by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, of Wisconsin, reflecting upon the loyalty of officials and employees of the United States Government, have produced something of a sensation, but, in appraising the issues raised, one should make a distinction between an allegation and the proof thereof.

So far, little evidence has been presented which would be convincing to an intelligent jury of twelve unimpassioned, unprejudiced individuals. It may be that Mr. McCarthy will produce something more than assertions but there is a difference between condemning the positions taken by the State Department, in connection with our foreign affairs, and being an agent of the Communist Government of Russia.

One should differentiate between criticism of the foreign policies adopted and followed by the State Department and allegations of disloyalty. It may be that our officials in the State Department have made serious mistakes in their effort to contain Communism, but this, by itself, does not prove that anybody is working in the interest of Russia.

It is worth noting that in 1919, after the first World War, the nation was highly excited over the charges that the Red Government of Russia, then called Bolsheviks, was about to start a revolution in this country. The assertion was repeated so often in the Twenties that many Americans were almost afraid to look under their beds for fear of finding a longwhiskered Bolshevik. The same observation is true of the charges made today. They can be repeated so often, even if without direct proof, that many Americans will get the idea that our Government is honey-combed with agents of the Soviet Union.

We are very cognizant of the fact that it is right for Congress to be concerned about laxity in the employment or appointment of those who represent the people of this country. While we think the present investigation has developed some indication of being a witch-hunt, we see the possibility that it may do some good and cause responsible officials to be more careful in the selection of their assistants and employees.
