newspaper by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

Question: Why is it dangerous to coast downhill in neutral?
Answer: In neutral, the braking power of the engine is lost, leaving the driver with only the brakes to check downhill momentum. On long down-grades it's possible to burn out linings by controlling the car with the brakes alone.

Question: Many short-haul trips require frequent oil changes. Why?
Answer: Short trips seldom allow the engine to reach its most favorable operating temperature. If the engine is not operated in the proper temperature range, oil dilution occurs necessitating frequent changes.

Question: What should you do if your hydraulic brakes suddenly go out?
Answer: Several things, depending on traffic, location and other hazards. Normally, one or more of these would help: Apply emergency brake, shift to lower gear, cut ignition, steer along the edge of the curb with the right wheels, steer onto the shoulder of the highway. Never disengage the clutch except when shifting to a lower gear.

Question: How can you easily measure the effectiveness of the brake system?
Answer: With the car standing still, push down on the brake pedal. If it can be depressed to within one inch of the floorboard, the brakes need attention. Then drive at slow speed, apply the brakes abruptly. If the car pulls sharply to one side, brakes are unequalized. At higher speeds it could throw a car out of control.

Question: How can a newspaper be useful around a car?
Answer: Spread out, it can be used to protect clothing when inspecting underneath the car. It can be used to clean spark plugs and wires. It may be taped to the windshield and windows overnight to prevent frosting. It may be left underneath the car overnight to detect a suspected oil leak. It may be spread on the floor of a car during long cold drives to keep the feet warm. It's handy for cleaning windshields after rainy weather.

Question: How do you keep ice off the windshield?

Answer: Best are electrical or hot air defrosters. Glycerine may be rubbed on the windshield. A small porous sack of wet salt rubbed on the windshield is fine for emergencies.

Testing Christianity must live it sincerely to win others in this or any other land.

"There is but one thing you have to fear in heaven or earth—being untrue to your best selves and, therefore, untrue to God," wrote Charles Kingsley.

"Europe was not only evangelized but civilized by Christian missionaries," says Dean George Hodges, who adds: "The same work can be done again in Africa and Asia. What is needed is that strong men, of courage and patience, of wisdom to plan and will to execute, of large views and long vision, filled with the spirit of Christian consecration, shall go in the name of Jesus Christ as the disciples went in the beginning, and win for him the empire of China, the empire of Japan and the empire of India, as they won the empire of Rome. It waits only for the men to do it."

AN ACT TO REGULATE COMMERCE

Both Are Modern!

Your rights and privileges as an American citizen are protected by the Constitution, a unique and magnificent document whose principles are as sound today as when written, over 150 years ago. Through the years, amendments have been added to keep the Constitution up-to-date. The same is true of the regulatory powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Congress has enacted more than 150 amendments to the Interstate Commerce Act since it was passed in 1887, completely overhauling it twice. In principle, present ICC regulations governing the various transportation systems are pertinent, constructive, and modern in concept. Under these principles, we have developed the greatest competitive transportation system in the world.
