One hundred fifty-two women from the district participated in the workshop. Each woman was encouraged to become skilled in a craft so that she could teach it in the county. About 15 various crafts, were taught by professionals, club women, specialists and other leaders.

Mrs. Anna Sutton, Route 3, Hertford, taught the class in rush chair bottoming. The women made stools or put new bottoms in chairs. Mrs. J. E. Proctor, Sr., and Mrs. Charles White learned Italian hemstitching. They plan to share this craft at a county workshop sometime in the future.

Mrs. W. J. Kanoy and Mrs. Ray Godfrey participated in the drawn work class.

Mrs. Veri Stokley made a dried flower arrangement in the dried flower arrangement class taught by Miss Pauline Gordon, Extension specialist. Mrs. Stokley also made a stool in the rush chair bottoming class.

The home agent, Ila Grey McIlwain, made several articles of jewelry in the aluminum chasing and embossing class.

The workshop is a method by which crafts can be taught to many by training leaders. The leaders are encouraged to teach others the crafts.

Crafts are used for money making purposes, as a hobby, as a skill, and for simple enjoyment. The 1960 crafts workshop was considered by the leaders to be very successful. Many of the women who attended for the first time expressed a desire to return. Anyone is eligible to attend the workshop.

Workers Council Plan Farm Tour For Next Tuesday

On Tuesday, August 30, a farm tour will be held in Perquimans County sponsored by the Agricultural Workers Council of Perquimans County.

It is felt that there are enough different things in Perquimans County to make a very interesting tour and that most people would see things of interest that might benefit them on their own farms.

This tour begins at 9:30 A. M. at the Agricultural Building in Hertford and will stop at Warner Madre's to look at fescue and Ladino clover planted in small grain and also observe a fish pond. From Mr. Madre's the next stop is Carl Harrell's on the Harvey Point road, where soil bank land was planted in pine tree seedlings and the next stop will be Tim Brinn's farm to see Bahia grass which is used for stiff land and if properly fertilized will give excellent grazing. Next will be a trip around the Burnt Mill Creek watershed project which is quite a large drainage project being conducted by Perquimans and Chowan farmers. Dr. Brinn's farm, at the edge of Bear Swamp, will be the next stop on the tour where corn was pre-emerged, sprayed with Simazine, never cultivated and sprayed with 2-4-D. From Dr. Brinn's the next stop will be Preston Nixon's where a peanut variety demonstration is being conducted, then a Dutch lunch and after lunch to Ray Morse's to see the state official corn variety demonstration. From Ray Morse's to Floyd Matthews to see an all practice peanut demonstration and from there to Fenton Eur's to see grain bin installation and next to Mrs. Nixon's to see woods that were thinned five years ago for pulp wood. After that we go on to Savage Jolliff's in Whitestone to see a soybean variety demonstration and then to Herbert Williams' to see the state official milo demonstration behind oats.

As you can see, this tour is well filled and the stops will not be too long, but should be interesting as we believe it is a well-rounded educational tour. Keep the date of Tuesday, August 30, in mind and we will leave from the Hertford Agricultural Building at 9:30 A. M., states R. M. Thompson, County Agricultural Agent.

Peanut Price Support Level Announced By Ag Department

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced the price support level for Virginia type peanuts at $213.93 per ton. This announcement was based on the supply situation as determined as of August 1st and will be the price per average ton of Virginia type peanuts under the price support program for this marketing season.

The figure, $213.93, is the support level and the loan level. The loan level, as computed for an average ton of Virginia type peanuts, is support less $9.16 per ton, which covers storage, inspection charges, and handling charges. An average ton of Virginia type peanuts is figured to have a grade of 67% SMK's, 32% Extra Large, and 4% damaged and other kernels. Using these grades, the value of a ton of meat content will be $193.29 and the extra large premium would be $12.80, making a total of $206.09 per ton. Figured in cents per pound the price would be 10.3c per pound. This is the loan price the farmer would receive at the Co-Op receiving points under the price support program operated by the Commodity Credit Corporation. The Commodity Credit Corporation has contracted with the Peanut Growers Cooperative Marketing Association of Franklin, Virginia, to administer the loan program in North Carolina and Virginia, and the Co-Op is in the process of making a contractual arrangement with warehousemen to supply and operate the receiving points in order that peanut growers may be assured of receiving at least the loan price for their peanuts. As in the past, the Co-Op will have the control of the peanuts and will be able to sell them to the trade prior to May 31, 1961. Any profits accrued by the Co-Op on the sale of the peanuts under their control will be distributed back to the farmers placing peanuts under loan after the expense of operating the Co-Op has been covered.

This price announcement is a 3.6% increase in the price above that of last year which amounts to a little better than one-third of a cent per pound. As a matter of clarification, it should be pointed out here that these figures are on an average grade and lots of peanuts grading better than the average given above will receive a higher price and a lot grading lower will receive a lower price. Peanuts having a damage percentage of 8% and over will not be eligible for price support and peanuts having 11% or over of foreign matter will not be eligible, nor will peanuts having more than 10% moisture be eligible.

For loan or commercial purposes, all growers should handle their crop as carefully as possible to assure themselves of having a good grade when they take their peanuts to market.

Public Response To Blood Program Termed Excellent

Perquimans County citizens answered the call for Red Cross blood donors on Monday by turning out in large numbers to help keep this life-saving program active, according to Talmage Rose, Jr., co-chairman of the county blood committee.

Mr. Rose reported a total of 94 pints of blood was collected Monday when the bloodmobile unit set up headquarters at the Hertford Methodist Church. Thus the county failed by only six pints in reaching its 100 pint quota.

Rose and John Beers, committee chairman, expressed their appreciation to those individuals who reported as donors and to persons who assisted in the program at the church.

They pointed out some disappointment in the failure to achieve the quota but blamed the time element as the main reason for this failure. Rose stated he felt the county can achieve the quota if the unit visits here during times when schools are in session, rather than during vacation periods. He said he hopes to have the date next year changed to September instead of August.

In announcing the results of the project on Monday, Rose stated 80 pints of the blood collected came from white donors and 14 pints of blood came from Negro donors.
