Tighter controls on travel between East and West Germany were invoked by the East Germans this week aimed at West Berliners visiting in East Berlin. The Communist government previously clamped down on East Germans going into West Berlin. While this situation remains taut it is now the general belief war over Berlin will be averted although the semi-blockade will remain for years to come.

The United States, France and Britain have increased military forces in West Berlin and clearly stated intentions to remain there under rights won by World War II regardless of any action Russia may take in signing a peace treaty with East Germany.

North Carolina voters, come November, will have an opportunity to voice opinions on some actions taken by the 1961 Legislature when several bond issues and amendments to the state constitution will be decided upon in a special election. Among other items included in the election will be a decision by the voters to determine procedure for succession of office holders.

"We believe this will be a very timely topic," said Astor Perry, peanut specialist at State College, who has helped plan the program. "Growers can find out about the latest curing techniques and still have time to adjust their equipment before harvesting."

Other highlights of the program will be the awarding of membership certificates in the Two-Ton Peanut Club and the presentation of a 4-H Club peanut demonstration by Jessie Smith of Duplin County.
