By MARION SWINDELL

They say the word "lonely" was created and used for the first time by Wil-liam Shakespeare. He has been dead for only 350 years, and what they used to describe "lonely" before his time, we don't know We are sure people were "Ionely" 400 years ago-even though they didn't have a word for it. You would be surprised how many lonely people there are in the world today. We know a person who makes it a regular habit of calling up her friends on the telephone and saying: "I just called because felt you might be lonely. The remarkable thing is that the phone calls are a sure cure for her friend's loneliness as well as her own. It might be a good idea

(Acts 15:39-16:10)

There is much truth in the statement made by an Anglican bishop many years ago, "If our religion is false we ought to change it, if it is true we are bound to propagate it." There can be little room for doubt that Christians ought to carry the good news of the Gospel to the ends of the earth. The story of men who took seriously this very obligation is recorded in our scripture lesson for today. Division, Acts 15:39-41 The Bible tells the plain truth about men. Even the Bible heroes like David, Moses and Paul. If they had weaknesses the writers did not gloss over them. Here is the account of two great Christian men. In fact they are men committed to missions to Jesus Christ. They have a disagreement. the contention becomes so sharp that these two men decide they cannot do their best together. They go their separate ways.

But there is not a word to indicate that Paul and Barnabas were unforgiving. Did either of them hold a grudge against the other? Not likely. We do know that Paul later had a good word for both Barabas John Mark (1 4:11).

It is not a test of a man's character or discipleship that he should disagree with a brother. The test comes in the way he handles the disagreement.

Paul and Barnabas agreed to disagree and two mission teams were born. Silas was chosen by Paul and approved by the church. The second missionary journey began.

Disciple, Acts 16:1-5

Paul and Barnabas went through Syria and Cilicia strengthening the churches. They came to Derbe and Lystra where a young disciple by the name of time for them to enter Asia. Timothy lived. As these missionary apostles traveled from city to city, they delivered the decrees (the decision of the Council at Jerusalem) to the churches. The result of their work was that the churches were made stronger and also increased in numbers.
