Hertford BPW Club Has Special Meeting

Ms. Helen Mahlum, vice president of the North Carolina eastern area of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, was guest speaker at a special covered dish supper meeting of the Hertford BPW Club last Thursday night. The purpose of the meeting was to invite working women throughout Perquimans County to attend and get to know about BPW and more specifically the Hertford chapter. The program of the evening opened with a welcome to all the special guests and BPW members of from Miss Hulda Wood, president of the Hertford BPW Club.

Each of the prospective new members were introduced by name and profession. Prior to the dinner, Miss Wood gave the invocation. Following their meal, the group was entertained by Mrs. Dora T. Riddick, the BPW Woman of the Week. She read several of her original poems concerning politics to the group and aroused many chuckles while bordering on the painful truth. Mrs. Riddick explained to the group that she has a special interest in politics and more specifically election day since that is the day of her birth 85 (almost 86) years ago. The floor was then turned over to Betty Swindell who introduced Ms. Mahlum as the evening's guest speaker. Increasing membership

Special guests at the meeting included Edna Snell and Carolyn Ricks, members of the Edenton BPW Club and district officers. Prospective members in attendance included Frances Bowden, Laura Fesperman, Linda Grieve, Darla Matthews, Janice Meads, Joann Morris, Lydia Perry, Suzanne Stanton, Bonnie White and Susan White, and Kay Whedbee.

Legion Wants Safe Holiday

The American Legion of Post 126 Hertford announced today the calendar of Halloween activities to be conducted during the week of October 28-31.

"The American Legion is particularly interested in 'Making Halloween a Safe and Fun Night.'" Post Commander Roy Ball said. Halloween is usually accompanied by happy thoughts but in some households this year it will be a sad occasion because of the death or injury of a child member of the family.

Children cross dark street on trick-or-treat expeditions and many are injured or killed annually by automobiles. Still other types of catastrophes have happened in the past, such as candy dipped in ant poison, lead poison or some other caustic material, being given to children as a treat.

It is unrealistic to think that trick-or-treat will soon be stopped as a Halloween activity. Why not encourage the children to do this right after school, perhaps from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., and before the evening meal? Parents should see that the children never eat any treats until the parents themselves have had a chance to sort through the goodies.

If the children wear costumes, parents should see that those garments are flame resistant material. If the costumes treated with flame-resistant material are washed or cleaned, they lose their fire resistant properties. These should be treated after cleaning or discarded when dirty. Children have difficulty seeing when they wear Halloween masks because of the small slits for the eyes. Costumes or stage make-up can be used rather than a mask. Reflective tape should be applied to the arms and legs of the costumes or costumes with reflective decorations should be used after dark.
