

Marching Unit Is On The Move

'Tis the season to be jolly', and the Perquimans County Marching Unit has been helping to make it so by representing Perquimans County in various Christmas parades.

The first of the seven parades was held in Windsor on November 23; a parade the Perquimans unit was honored to lead. On Thanksgiving Saturday, November 30, the unit journeyed to Williamston to participate in the yuletide celebration.

The Marching Unit is experiencing a full week this week. The girls have strutted through three towns as of today, and will march in one this afternoon, and of course in Hertford's parade tomorrow.

Monday, the girls ventured to Murfreesboro for a windy 4 p.m. affair. The unit performed well in spite of low temperatures and windy gusts.

Then it was off to Greenville the next day for another chilling adventure. Elizabeth City held their parade at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday which provided a new experience for many of the girls. This afternoon, the familiar bus will be traveling down Highway 17 to transport the unit to Edenton for their holiday show. Finally, the Marching Unit will top off its long week by performing for its native folk; Friday afternoon the girls will again be seen marching down Church Street in Hertford.

Besides parades, the Unit will also serve dinner and provide entertainment for the Perquimans County Horse and Pony Club on December 10.

As you can see the Perquimans County Marching Unit is still working hard to represent Perquimans County please support them!

Lack Of Participation May Cancel Xmas Sing

The community-wide Christmas sing, scheduled for Dec. 16, has, so far, elicited response from only one church.

This followed a previous notice in this paper, and the mailing of about 50 notices to all churches in the county.

Unless more response is forthcoming, within the next week, this effort to unite the county during this yule season, will be cancelled.
