Young Democrats plan pig picking

The Perquimans County Young Democrats will hold a pig picking on March 4 for membership recruitment.

Special guest speaker will be Steve Glass, Executive Director of the North Carolina Democratic Party.

The Young Democrats recently held an organizational meeting at which time enough interest was expressed to form a local chapter.

At the March 4 meeting, the club's charter will be presented.

New members are welcome. Requirements are that members must be Democrats and 36 years of age or less. The membership fee is $1.

Anyone interested in more information may contact L. Paul Smith Jr., acting chairman or Mrs. Ann Young.

Courses offered

Local educational short courses are being scheduled for grading constructors and interested citizens in each of the state's 100 counties. The free courses will be offered by county agricultural extension agents and district conservationists with the Soil Conservation Service. Each course will be divided into two brief sessions dealing with background into the legal requirements of the North Carolina sedimentation control program and techniques for grading and clearing land in environmentally safe ways.

State officials consider sediment the greatest source of pollution in North Carolina today.

On UNC Dean's List

CHAPEL HILL — Two students from Perquimans County have been named to the 1977 fall semester dean's list at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Receiving the academic honor are Winston Earl Lane III, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston E. Lane Jr. of Rt. 1, Hertford; and Eva Ruth Ward, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jarvis Ward of Church St., Hertford.

VOCATIONAL OPTIONS EXPLAINED — Students from Perquimans County High School visited College of the Albemarle last week as part of the observation of the N.C. Vocational Education Week program initiated by the college. Robert Ford, right, chairman of COA's Drafting and Design Department, explains the requirements for the two-year technology programs during the students' tour of the Technical Center. Juniors and seniors from each of the area's seven county high schools were invited to visit the college during the week. (COA Photo)
