Home economists hold region meet

"All feelings are important." "Listen to feelings." "I accept you as you are." Those comments were made by Mrs. Minnie Wood of Camden as speaker at the Northeast Region Home Economics Association meeting held March 2 in Elizabeth City. Fourteen counties in the Northeast make up this professional group which met for dinner at the Pasquotank County Extension Office. Included were representatives from Perquimans County.

According to president Ila M. White, from Hertford, a highlight of the meeting were plans for a Seafood Workshop to be held Aug. 17 at the Marine Resources Center in Manteo, N.C. This educational event will be sponsored by the North Carolina Department Marine Affairs in Raleigh. The Director is J.C. Jones of Raleigh. Participants in the workshop will learn the latest in marine research, identification, selecting and buying seafood, how to cook and clean crab and shrimp. Filleting and freezing fish, preparation of foods from trash fish and use of oysters, scallops, and clams will also be featured in workshop discussions. Registration must be to Doris Hawkins of Elizabeth City by June 1.

Mary Vann of Murfreesboro was appointed to be a delegate to the Public Policy Workshop, May 11-13 at East Carolina University sponsored by AHEA.

Callie Harwicke from Currituck gave a report and talk about the visibility of home economics. She encouraged each county to locate home economists and provide an opportunity to get together.

Reports of county activities were also heard.

Frances Ward from Edenton, fellowship chairman, recognized the following: Jane Taylor from Harrellsville, 1978 Home Economist of the Year; Daisy Bemby from Edenton, 1977 Northeast Region Teacher of the Year; and Gaye Howell of Hertford, Chairman of the State Nutrition Committee.

Emily White, hospitality chairman from Elizabeth City, gave the welcome. Juanita Bailey from Windsor gave the devotional. Minnie Taylor from Hertford acted as secretary.

Slides of the Annual NCEA meeting were shown. Gaye Howell gave a report of the nutrition committee. Nina White of Hertford reported on the membership committee. Vice-Chairman Mary Cowper from Gatesville reported on programs. Historian Doris Hawkins gave a report. And Chairman-Elect Jane Taylor reported on awards and budgets.

The fall meeting will be held Oct. 5, 1978.

Are PCHS Buildings Meeting Our Needs? I DON'T THINK SO

The main building at Perquimans County High School, constructed in 1924, has served our county well over the last half century. However, the building has outlived its effectiveness from both an economic and an academic standpoint.

In light of this, it is not feasible to spend the kind of money it would take to bring the building up to standards.

Since the School Board is charged with the responsibility of providing the best possible facilities for learning in our county, I feel that it's time to consider replacing the 1924 building.

Since we have approximately $1 million on hand, it's time to move forward and put this money to work now to prevent any further loss of buying power.

Approval has been granted to put this approximately $1 million to work using it for Phase I of construction and renovation at Perquimans High School. I will further address this part of the issue in next week's statements.

3. Stretch-A-Check backs up your checking. When you open a Stretch-A-Check Account, you don't have to worry about falling below the $100 minimum balance.
