Mrs. Shirley Holley of Rt. 1, Box 494, Hertford, was recently awarded a $100 savings bond for "her outstanding work" at Hertford Apparel, Ltd.

ing in December. Jerry Holt, vice-president and general manager, says, "she is a very successful employee."

Mrs. Holley works hard on the job, but in her spare time she likes to relax by bowling, an area in which she excels. She is the North Carolina State Singles Champion and came in second for the City. In February, she appeared on television while bowling in Wilmington. She has won two silver trays and a gold pin for her bowling expertise.

Upon receiving her award at work, she expressed her feelings by saying, "I've worked hard for this."

FINISHING TOUCHES — Project workers add some finishing touches to the newly completed athletic fence at Perquimans County High School. The

PCHS fence is completed

The athletic fence at Perquimans County High School has been completed by Eastern Fence of Greenville, contractors for the project with the Per-quimans County Board of Education.

The total cost for the new fence came to $8,466.50 with the work being completed near the projected date. Some slow down in work was caused by recent bad weather.

The seven-foot fence is designed with an extra rail midway for additional support and has an extra galvanized coating.

One worker at the project site described it as "one of the finest he'd ever seen" and Superintendent Pat Harrell expressed pleasure with the project calling it "a welcomed improvement."

Letters From Our Readers:
Editor's Mailbag

TO THE EDITOR:

America's Education Should Be Upgraded

The foundation should be laid in the lower grades by proper guidance in the early stage of a child's life in order to make progress in our changing society. If this is done, the child is in position to climb the ladder step by step until he or she has reached its goals. If this is done, the child is in the right channel that leads to progress and enjoyment. This is the only way to upgrade our schools for better Americans.

It has been recorded that many of our high school graduates are not reading and writing well enough to compete with our changing society. It is too bad that the foundation was not laid in the lower grades but only created a major problem in the pupil's life. Children should be taught the basic skills, such as reading, writing, mathematics, science and vocational training.

I believe the quality of life depends on education in our society. Therefore I urge the local government, the state government, and the national government to provide an environment that enables each individual to enjoy equal rights and to pursue a full and complete life regardless of race, creed, or sex.

A thought for the 4th

Each July 4th I count my moral vacuum. Our System cannot provide meaning to one's life. It can only provide a channel through which our moral energies can be directed. Thus, if we lose moral values what, then, will we channel through our System?

But lately, I've wondered, "Can such freedoms long exist in a nation whose moral values are collapsing all about?" Morality cannot be legislated. We cannot expect representative government to provide values to a people living in a
