15 CENTS

HONORED FOR ADVERTISING WORK — Michael Winslow, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Newby Winslow of Rt. 2, Hertford, has been awarded the 1978 One Show Gold Medal, the advertising industry's highest honor. The award was presented for an ad campaign Winslow did for the State of North Carolina. He is an art director with McKinney, Silver and Rockett of Raleigh.

Receives prestigious advertising award

RALEIGH — Michael Winslow, a native of Hertford, has been awarded the advertising industry's highest honor for his work on the current travel advertising campaign for the State of North Carolina.

The 1978 One Show Gold Medal, for best consumer magazine advertising campaign in the United States, was presented to Winslow in June at a ceremony in New York City.

The North Carolina campaign art, directed by Winslow, won in a category that included entries by Xerox, Volvo, Cutty Sark, National Geographic, Clairol, and numerous other national advertisers. In the judging, the campaign received the highest point count of the more than 6,000 entries in this year's competition.

The One Show is sponsored annually by the One Club, an association of advertising art directors and copywriters based in New York City. It is considered the most prestigious competition of its kind, the advertising industry's equivalent of the Oscars.

This was Winslow's second One Show award. In 1975, he won the Silver Medal for a single consumer magazine advertisement for the State of South Carolina.

Winslow is employed as an art director with McKinney, Silver and Rockett in Raleigh. He, his wife Linda, and their 10-month-old daughter, Emily Claire, live in Cary.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Newby Winslow of Rt. 2, Hertford.

Correction is noted

There was an error in the report of District Court proceedings appearing on page 8 in last week's issue of The Perquimans Weekly.

It was erroneously reported that Glorius Stallin Elliott was taxed with a fine of $10 and cost on an assault charge. Ms. Elliott was taxed with a fine of $10 and cost on a speeding charge, not assault.

Our apologies.

Grant to EIC allows assistance

The Economic Improvement Council, Inc. recently assisted 250 low-income families under the Emergency Energy Assistance Program.

The grant awarded to EIC was for $27,669 and was designated to assist low-income individuals, especially the elderly and the disabled, in paying back fuel bills and to prevent utility shut-offs. Over 700 individuals residing in the households benefitted from the project.

"The Emergency Energy Assistance Program is a one-time funding from the Community Services Administration and designed to lessen the impact of high fuel costs and to enable the poor to respond to crisis situations," said Fenness Morris, Executive Director of EIC.

Labor Day closings

The following local public agencies have verified that they will be closed on Monday, Sept. 4 in observance of the Labor Day Holiday. Normal business hours will resume on Tuesday, Sept. 5: Perquimans County Chamber of Commerce and License Bureau, all Town of Hertford Offices, Clerk of Court's Office, Register of Deeds Office, Perquimans County Tax and Water Departments, Hertford Post Office, Perquimans County Library.

Perquimans County Schools will also be closed Monday offering students an early holiday. Teachers and students report back as usual on Tuesday morning.

Meetings, previously scheduled for Monday night, which have been changed include: Perquimans County Board of Education to Tuesday, Sept. 5 at 8 p.m. and Hertford Town Council to Monday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m.

Although all local businesses were not contacted, Labor Day is a traditional holiday with business closings anticipated.

Edenton man is charged after hit & run accident

A local man remains in satisfactory condition in Albemarle Hospital following a hit and run accident that occurred around 11:50 p.m. Friday in Perquimans County on what is known as Lake Road.

James Marvin Trueblood, 38, of Rt. 2, Box 270, Hertford, reportedly suffered abrasions to the face as a result of the accident. At press time, he was still under observation at the hospital.

According to a report by investigating trooper C.H. Mims, Trueblood was traveling west on rural paved road 1122, 7.6 miles north of Hertford and four-tenths of a mile west of rural paved road 1124. He had stopped on the roadway with the car door open, standing on the driver's side of his vehicle.

The report stated that another car, driven by James Alexander Elliott Jr., 32, of Rt. 1, Box 123, Edenton, was traveling east on the road, struck the open door of the Trueblood car catching Trueblood between the open door and the vehicle.

Following the incident, Trueblood was taken to Albemarle Hospital by the Perquimans County Rescue Squad and was reportedly unconscious.

Trueblood was charged with driving under the influence. Elliott was later charged with hit and run, personal injury, and property damage.

Reward offered re vandalism

Sometime during the early morning hours of Aug. 25, vandals flattened all four tires on a car belonging to Herbert Eure of 118 Grubb St., Hertford. They also flattened the right rear tire on a car belonging to Wayne Henritze of 220 W.

Market St., Hertford.

According to Hertford Police Chief Marshall Merritt, the vandals used what appeared to be an ice pick to puncture the tires. Merritt said there had been several incidents of minor vandalism prior to these occurrences and, in an effort to solve the case, the Police Department is offering a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsible.

Chief Merritt suggests that residents pay particular attention to anyone seen near cars belonging to them or neighbors and that a call be dispatched to the police if they observe anything of a suspicious nature.

County to host peanut meeting

Perquimans County will be among nine counties to host peanut marketing meetings for the purpose of informing the growers concerning the rules and regulations which will affect the marketing activities under the new peanut program. The program came into effect this year, and the meetings will include discussions with farmers concerning their options in marketing their quota and additional peanuts.

The Perquimans County meeting will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 6 at the County Agriculture Building beginning at 2 p.m.

The nine meetings are being held in the major peanut producing counties and are being jointly sponsored by the North Carolina ASCS, the Agriculture Extension Service, and the Peanut Growers Cooperative Marketing Association.

Appearing on the program will be Ernest Miller of the State ASCS, S. Womack Lee, Manager of the Peanut Growers Cooperative Association, and Clyde Weathers, Agriculture Economist with N.C. State University.

Moderator at the meeting will be Joe S. Sugg, Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association. Miller will explain the rules and regulations pertaining to the county administration with respect to marketing cards, quotas, additional, etc. Lee will explain the role of the Peanut Growers Cooperative Marketing Association in handling quota and additional peanuts of each segregation which goes into the CCC pools. Weathers will discuss the market demand and outlook for this year's crop and next year's crop to help the farmer make his decision with respect to quota, quota transfer, quota carry overs and additional designations.

All Perquimans County farmers are urged to attend the Sept. 6 meeting which will include a complete question and answer questions answered prior to digging and marketing time.

Fund raising campaign for Newbold-White house begins

By KATHY M. NEWBERN

After some time out of the spotlight, Perquimans County's Newbold-White House is back in the news.

R.L. Stevenson, Finance Chairman for the Perquimans County Restoration Association, announced Monday plans to begin a fund raising campaign for the project with a goal of $25,000. Stevenson explained that two matching grants of $12,500 each are available for the project from the North Carolina legislature is the goal of local money can be met. The campaign will run through Nov. 1.

The chairman explained that the $50,000 total, if reached, would put the fall of 1979 as the expected completion date for total restoration of the Newbold-White House, the oldest home in the state. Two other structures to be completed at the site, the caretaker's cottage and a visitor's center, would be finished at a later date.

Over 700 letters are going in the mail this week to people in the community and out-of-state that have in the past been supporters of the ongoing project.

Included in the mail-out is a fact sheet drawn up by Ray Winslow, archivist with the organization. It points out several historical items of interest associated with the house.

The Perquimans County Restoration Association was incorporated in 1971 and it purchased the Newbold-White House in February, 1973.

While several delays have put the restoration behind schedule, Stevenson said he has a positive attitude that this fund raising, if successful, will result in the completion of the project.

He added that memorial gifts are welcome and a Memorial Book is being kept and updated for permanent display at the house.

Anyone interested in making a contribution or desiring more information may contact Stevenson at P.O. Box 318, Hertford or by phoning 426-5214.

Cox named group's vice-chairman

Hertford's Mayor Bill Cox recently acquired another title.

When Governor Jim Hunt's Crime Prevention and Public Information Committee held its first meeting in Raleigh on Aug. 21, the governor announced that Cox had been named vice-chairman of the group.

The group is part of the state's Division of Crime Control and Public Safety and serves in an advisory capacity to the Governor's Crime Commission. The committee is charged with offering suggestions on effective methods to "foster public awareness of the role of individual citizens, businesses and community organizations in the prevention and reporting of crime."

At the Aug. 21 organizational meeting, the 49-member committee heard opening remarks from the governor and comments from J. Phil Carlton, Secretary of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

Judge Burley B. Mitchell Jr., Chairman of the Governor's Crime Commission, administered the oath of office to the committee members. Sheriff Jay W. Trivette of Forsyth County was introduced as the overall committee chairman.

Several other speakers on the meeting agenda presented comments on the following: a description of crime analysis, an overview of the statewide crime prevention program, key components of the statewide program, and support programs.

Three sub-committees were selected during the meeting in the following areas: local law enforcement support, media support, and community support and coordination.

Cox was also named to serve as chairman of the 16-member sub-committee on community support and coordination.

The committee will meet about once each month with additional meetings of the sub-committees planned, Cox explained.

Also serving on the governor's committee are Sheriff Troy Toppin of Edenton, John Halstead of Camden, and Bill Owens Jr. of Blizabeth City.

Concerning his appointment and the first session, Cox said, "I was real pleased with the meeting."
