Annual Woodland Clinic held in Gates County

The seventeenth annual F.F.A. Woodland Clinic was held Thursday, October 26, in Gates County with several area high schools participating.

The event is sponsored annually by the Albemarle Soil and Water Conservation District with the cooperation of the Vocational Agricultural teachers, the North Carolina Forest Service, Union Camp Corporation, and Jones Lumber Company. The North Carolina

Forest Service set up the contest and prizes are donated by Union Camp Corporation and Jones Lumber Company.

The F.F.A. team from Chowan High School in Chowan won first place and received a $25 award. Currituck County High School in Currituck placed second and received $15. The F.F.A. team from Camden High School placed third and received $10. Perquimans County group placed fourth in the contest.

Walter Byrum of the Chowan F.F.A. team was high scorer in the event and received an award of $10.

Homemakers attend conference

Four members of the Perquimans County Extension Homemakers attended the annual council meeting of the North Carolina Extension Homemakers Association, Inc. held Oct. 24-25 in Raleigh.

Mrs. Donald Madre, Mrs. Reba Hurdle, Mrs. Marion Frierson, and Mrs. M.T. Griffin were among more than 500 club women participating in the state council conference at the Jane S. McKimmon Extension and Continuing Education Center at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. Those present represented more than 25,230 members statewide. Governor James B. Hunt Jr., speaker for the closing luncheon, commended the members on their many hours of volunteer service devoted to family, home, and community. The theme of the event was "Our Hours." Reports from the nine program of work areas, citizenship, cultural arts, education, international, family life and youth, health, home economics, public information, and safety, pointed up thousands of hours of volunteer service during the past year alone. Special recognition was made during the awards breakfast. The coveted

A free examination and management plan will determine what is needed. Federal and state cost share assistance funds will pay for 60 percent of the needed practices for qualifying landowners. Qualifying does not involve a legal can of worms, and after the examination and plan is prepared you are under no obligation to follow the plan except your moral obligation of being a good steward of the land.

Many more people refuse to manage their forest land that have benefited in the past. How many mortgages do you suppose were paid off on land from the receipts of timber sales? If this shoe fits, citizens are urged to call the Perquimans County Forest Ranger. A free examination and management plan will determine what is needed, and you can get federal and state cost share assistance funds that will pay 60 percent of your cost for needed practices.

The services offered by the North Carolina Forest Service in forest management assistance are sincere and we can help you, the forest resources. The future of the forest is critical if not managed. You must voluntarily take action now by contacting the Perquimans County Forest Ranger. It may not always be an easy battle managing your forest, if it is in poor health, but we know how to make it easier.

It is your right not to take advantage of the services available. Remember though it is your right to refuse. It is also your moral obligation not to refuse. Only you are responsible for the future outcome of the forest titled in your name.

Hospital fund-raising report

The Chowan Hospital Auxiliary Membership Drive, held Oct. 19-20 in Perquimans County, netted a total of $229.29 according to Mrs. Marion Swindell, local chairperson.

Money collected in this annual drive is used by the auxiliary for their many projects which include purchasing hospital equipment and sponsoring scholarships to graduates of Perquimans and Chowan County schools who plan to enter a health related field. Mary Wood Hurdle, a 1978 Perquimans High School graduate, was the recipient of one of the scholarships this year.

On behalf of the auxiliary, Mrs. Swindell expressed thanks to those persons who contributed to the drive with special recognition to Mrs. Charles Woodard and Mrs. Jack Boone who, as co-chairpersons, secured the workers as well as organized the fund-raising. Others donating time to the effort included Miss Hulda Wood, Mrs. Raymond Schofield, Rev. Charles Bullard, Mrs. Ellie Vickers, Mrs. Herbert Nixon, Mrs. Percy Newbern, Mrs. Marion Since few bacteria thrive in acids, their destruction is less difficult in fruits than in vegetables (with the exception of tomatoes).

Pesticide disposal procedure outline

Richard Bryant, pesticides coordinator for Perquimans County, has issued a reminder to area farmers concerning disposal of pesticide containers.

Bryant explained that the Perquimans-Chowan Sanitary Landfill will accept the containers for burial if a few simple steps are followed.

Farmers are instructed to first rinse the container three times to dispose of any remaining pesticides, and then to split the containers at the bottom and sides. Bryant pointed out that this is a safety precaution to prevent explosions at the landfill site. He added that paper bags containing pesticides will also be accepted at the site.
