

Scholarships awarded to Arts

WINSTON-SALEM — full scholarships, applicable to 1979-80 tuition and fees at NCSA.

Four scholarships, one each in dance, design and production or visual arts, drama, and music, will be awarded. Except for the drama scholarship, which is applicable only for the college program, they will cover basic expenses for one year in either the NCSA high school or college programs.

Applications to enter the competition can be obtained from James S.

Midgette, Guidance Counselor at the Perquimans County High School. The deadline for returning the entry application is January 15, 1979.

The Sanford Scholarships, which honor former Governor Terry Sanford for his role in the founding of NCSA, are awarded to legal residents of North Carolina only. The competition is not open to students already enrolled at NCSA.

Competition regulations differ in details for each of the four performing arts programs, but all consider potential talent as well as current level of proficiency. Candidates eliminated in the Sanford Scholarship competitions will receive full consideration for admission. Financial assistance for these students is dependent on talent and financial need.

More than 100 students competed last year for Sanford Scholarships, and roughly half of these met or exceeded NCSA's standards for admission requirements. At present, there are 12 Sanford Scholarship winners still enrolled at NCSA and roughly 150 students who, although they did not win, were admitted on the basis of talent and ability demonstrated in the Sanford Scholarships competition.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Mrs. C.E. Johnson was hostess to her bridge club on Tuesday night at her home on Front Street. Those playing were Mrs. T.B. Sumner, Mrs. Katherine Ward, Mrs. Eldon Winslow, Mrs. Charles Whedbee, Mrs. Claude Brinn, Mrs. Jack Kanoy, Mrs. John Coston, and Miss Thelma Elliott.

Reseeding is necessary

Perquimans County Forest Ranger, John Hurdle, advises people owning cut-over woodland that they are missing a good opportunity. According to Hurdle, cut-over woodland that is left to reseed back to pine trees by itself seldom does so, leaving the owner with a piece of land growing nothing but briars and low quality hardwood trees when it is capable of growing a valuable crop of pine trees.

"Trees should be considered as such a crop as corn or soybeans and the woodland should be considered an important part of the farm," reports Hurdle. As a result of today's high prices being paid for trees by timber buyers, it is essential that all woodland contain a well stocked stand of desirable trees. When the trees are harvested from an area it should be reseeded as soon as possible. Speedy reforestation of cut-over woodland usually reduces the costs of getting the areas prepared and ready to be planted with pine seedlings.

The cost of preparing woodland for the planting of pine trees varies from $8 to $100 per acre according to Ranger Hurdle. These costs depend on how long the area has been logged, the number and size of the trees left standing, the type of soil present, and the size of the area. Mr. Hurdle advises that the North Carolina Forest Service personnel will be glad to examine your woodland free of charge and give information as to the method of reforestation needed as well as the approximate costs involved.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services as well as the State of North Carolina both have cost share programs through which landowners can get reimbursed up to 60 percent of their site preparation and tree planting cost. Landowners must sign up at the ASCS office or the County Forest Ranger Office before starting the work in order to qualify for cost-share funds.

Contact Ranger Hurdle for more information at 426-5551 during office hours and nights at 264-3035.

Ex-nurse honored

Miss Hulda Wood, a retired public health nurse, was honored as Club Woman of the Year by the Hertford Business and Professional Women's Club during their recent observance of National BPW Week.

In presenting her a plaque, Mrs. Bonnie White, club chairman of the week's activities, expressed the appreciation of the club to Miss Wood for her untiring efforts on behalf of the club, her church, her community and her profession.

A graduate of the University of Maryland School of Nursing, she served in the Army Nurse Corps during World War II and worked in public health nursing in Perquimans and Pasquotank counties. She worked in Chowan County from 1949 until her 1973 retirement.

She is a member of the Hertford Baptist Church, a teacher of the Dorcas Sunday School Class and an active member of the Women's Missionary Union. She serves as secretary and treasurer of the WMU of the Chowan Baptist Association.

For many years Miss Wood has been closely associated with the Perquimans County Unit of the American Cancer Society and is currently serving as its secretary. She has held all offices and most committee chairmanships in the local BPW Club as well as having served as district secretary. In addition, she still finds time to serve as a volunteer worker at Chowan Hospital.

Her retirement has allowed her the time to travel to many areas of the world, but most of the time you can find her busily and quietly visiting the sick and shut-in of the area, providing them with transportation, taking them a special dish she has prepared or just providing them with a visit and warm smile of encouragement.

Pierce produces

A local area farmer has recently named a member of the Dekalb Yield-masters Club for producing one of the top Perquimans County corn yields. Billy L. Pierce of New Hope, was named a member of the club by Dekalb district sales manager, Paul McKown of Virginia Beach after producing a 130.63 bushel-per-acre yield.

Pierce planted the crop on April 12 at a population of 26,000 plants per acre and harvested an estimated stand of 23,000 plants per acre on August 30. The Hertford farmer applied 1,000 pounds of 5-10-10 and 150 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre before planting. He used Lasso to control weeds.

Pierce said, "XL-43a is the best early hybrid I have planted. The stalk quality is good and the test weight is the best."
