A Perquimans County man was arrested last week after a homemade whisky distillery was discovered and seized from his property in the Bethel Township. According to Sheriff Julian Broughton, Glenn Ray

Harrell, who listed his address at Rt. 2, Box 66K, Edenton, was arrested and charged with distilling spiritous liquor, manufacturing alcoholic beverages, possession of property for unlawful manufacture, and allowing a distillery to be set up on ones land. Released on $4,000 bond, Harrell's trial date has been set in July. The distillery was housed in a truck trailer. (Photo by Pat Mansfield)

The Active Consumer

Q. The little cans of motor oil additives one sees: What's in them? What do they do? Do I really need them?

A. Motor oil additives sold to be added independently to the crankcase are generally a throw-back to days when motor oil contained no additives and supplements were offered to the motoring public. Experts at Gulf Oil say that today, most well-known brands are fully fortified to perform the functions required of them within the service classification designated on the container, and additional additives should not be needed.
