Chappell volunteers time and energy

By SUSAN HARRIS

Catching Larry Chappell long enough to carry on an uninterrupted conversation is a little like holding a breaking wave on the shore. One minute he's talking to you, then the scanner sounds and his ears perk for the message. Next the bell rings, signaling that a customer needs

This dynamic Perquimans County native last week received the coveted Jaycee Distinguished Service Award. The award is presented annually to a person between 18 and 35 who exhibits meritorious service to their family, community and country. It is the organization's highest honor.

When asked how he felt when he received the award, Larry said, "I felt really good, but it was a good thing they didn't ask me to say anything. I was speechless." He added, "They had some other good folks nomi-

"It's something I'e wanted," he concluded. And he's worked hard to achieve the recognition. Larry joined the county's rescue squad in 1973 while still in high school. He has since become an EMT. He pulls both day and night duty, which means spending some nights away from home. It has also meant leaving his business short-handed, but Larry is willing to make the sacrifice to help those in need.

Why does Larry give so freely of himself to the squad? "I see that they (the squad members) need help. Since it's volunteer, it makes you want to put out more," Larry answers.

Everybody has to work with me," he said of his employees. "I go sometimes even if I'm not on duty."

Larry said earning his EMT is something he's most proud of. "That's a hard thing to get...I feel like I've accomplished somerattles and a button. The snake coiled up and shook the five rattles. The alerted hunters shot and killed the snake and brought it by The Perquimans Weekly office, in hopes that it would make other hunters cautious of the snakes. It has always been said that snakes hybernate in the winter. However, Monday was unseasonably warm and this snake must have thought winter was over.

A Financially Independent Retirement

The real choice is not whether to sign up for a Peoples Bank IRA, but which IRA is the best for you.

If you're a more conservative investor, our standard, insured individual retirement account offers you a wide range of high yielding certificates that gives you a safe tax sheltered plan you can bank on.

If you're an aggressive, independent investor, our Self-Directed IRA is for you. It lets you take charge of your IRA funds to invest in stocks, bonds, mutual funds and more.

With either IRA, you can invest annually up to $2,000 of your earned income and deduct the amount from your gross taxable income for that year. You can even open a Peoples Bank IRA with funds from another qualified plan. All the earnings of your IRA are tax-deferred until you start withdrawing funds. And it's possible to borrow the money from us to open your Peoples Bank IRA.
