

Local News

Letters to the Editor

The Perquimans Weekly

Dear Editor,
It is a shame that more people in Perquimans County didn't know about, or were not able to attend a course that ended today at the Newbold-White Site. There was one person from a neighboring county who never missed a session, neither did I nor most of the others.

The course was "Introduction to Archaeology" taught by David McCall. Hearing lectures and viewing artifacts and films, helped all of us to understand life styles of people of many different cultures. To me, it was especially interesting to get an idea of the lifestyle of the people who first lived at this interesting place.

I first became aware of the importance of the Newbold-White House when it was being restored and my daughter, Anne E. Young became the first Chairman of Operations. The Newbold-White House is a valuable asset to Perquimans County. Since it is the oldest house in the state, we can truly claim it as a unique asset.

I hope more people from the county will be able to attend the next course on the same subject. That one will begin on March 11, 1986. Anyone who misses this opportunity will be a real loser.

Yours truly,
Marie S. Elliott
510 Pennsylvania Avenue
Hertford, NC

Dear Editor,

On behalf of the Quilt Lovers Guild, I would like to thank you and the people of Pasquotank, Perquimans, Chowan, Dare, Gates, and Currituck counties for a most successful Quilt Documentation Day on February 22nd. The coverage we received in your paper really reached the multitudes and resulted in a record breaking day. I think we can call the whole seven counties "Quilt Lovers."

This is a very rich area to have so many beautiful quilts and so many people who value them. It was truly a feast for the eye and at times a lump in the throat when we felt the story and histories unfold before us. We were overwhelmed at the turn out. As more than 150 people learned, we had to stop taking quilts in the early afternoon because there were more quilts than time to process them. We did take their names, and they will be called to make up day so that their quilts can be documented. I can't begin to tell you how patient and understanding people were. The lines were long and the quilts piled high but not once did we hear "a discouraging word." I think they might have been enjoying the "quilt show" as we were.

We also want to thank all of the volunteers who came and worked.

They came from our seven counties plus Greenville and Tidewater (I even had a "customer" or two pitch in) to help and we couldn't have done it without them. It was an exciting day we won't soon forget.

Sincerely,
Jackie (Mrs. V.M.) Fueston
Corresponding Secretary
Quilt Lovers Guild

Of Local Interest

Archaeology class slated

An introduction to Archaeology, a classroom study of the field of Social Science and its various disciplines—Anthropology, Sociology, Archaeology, Folklore, Political Science, Economics and History—will be taught by David McCall beginning March 11, 1986.

The course is being offered through the College of The Albemarle at the Newbold-White House site in Hertford. McCall is program director of the Newbold-White House.

The course will be taught on Tuesdays from 10:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. from March 11 until May 27. For further information contact McCall at 426-7567

Planning Board to meet

There will be a meeting of the Perquimans County Planning Board on Monday, March 10, at 7:30 p.m. at the Perquimans County Courthouse.

The CAMA Land Use Plan Update will be discussed, along with Economic and Community Development.

Topics included in the discussion of development will be: types and locations of industry desired; local commitment to provide service to development; types of urban growth patterns desired; and others.

The public is invited to attend this meeting.

Hospital holds life support class

Twenty-eight nurses and physicians from Chowan and Albemarle Hospitals participated in an Advanced Cardiac Life Support course (ACLS) held recently at Chowan Hospital.

This course, until recently, available only at teaching centers, provided advanced training on the resuscitation of patients suffering from heart disease.

The participants were instructed in electro-shock as a treatment for rapid heartbeats, drug therapy for heart attack treatment as well as associated illnesses and treatment for respiratory failure.

Co-Directors of the course were Dr. Mark Walsh of Albemarle and Chowan Hospitals and Dr. Gennard Lanzara of the Duke University Medical Center. Dr. James F. O'Leary of Edenton was the course coordinator and Anne Marie Newton of the State Emergency Medical Services was organizer.

The goal is to train personnel to provide the highest caliber of care to patients in their care.

Dismal Swamp lecture set

The second in a series of four humanities lectures on the Great Dismal Swamp and its 158-year-old canal that was begun in 1787, will feature Rockingham Community College historian-in-residence Dr. Lindley Butler. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 11, in the lecture auditorium at College of The Albemarle.

Butler, who earned his degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, teaches history at the community college in Wentworth. In 1972, the North Carolina native was recipient of a National Endowment for Humanities fellowship.

He is a former vice president of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association, and is currently serving on its executive committee. The historian is the author of "The North Carolina Experience—A Documentary and Interpretive History" that was published in 1984.

Butler's topic is "The Dismal Swamp Canal: An Economic Link to River Navigation of the Roanoke System." He will compare the contrasts of views between Virginians and North Carolinians at the time the canal was being dug, and in later periods when major improvements were being made during his presentation next Tuesday evening.

The admission-free lectures are open to the public. Phi Theta Kappa national honor Fraternity members at the college will serve refreshments after each lecture.

The 1986 series is sponsored by COA, Museum of the Albemarle, and the North Carolina Humanities Committee.

Extension meeting planned

There will be a marketing meeting concerning agricultural options on Tuesday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the Perquimans

County Extension Office. Dr. Everett Nicholes, an extension economist in charge of grain marketing, will explain the differences in options, forward contracting and hedging. To register for the meeting call the Extension Office at 426-5428.

Showtime wins championship

Last Thursday evening, Showtime defeated the "A" Team by a score of 70-69 in overtime. The two teams met in the finals after the "A" Team defeated the LA Phillies in the first playoff game.

This week is the beginning rounds of the double elimination tournament which is expected to be as exciting as the regular season was. Showtime is seeded first and will face the winner of the Jackson Wholesale vs The Get Fresh Crew game which was played Monday evening. The tournament games begin at 7:15 p.m. with the second game starting at 8:15.

The public is invited to spectate the games which are played at the Winfall Union Gym. Admission is 25 cents.

Winslow Auctions

HAROLD WINSLOW
297-2658
BRENT WINSLOW
297-2839

"Auction Sales is Our Business... Not a Sideline."

ELECT
Joe Lothian
SHERIFF
Perquimans County
"Paid for by friends of Joe Lothian"

PHYSICAL THERAPY:

part of the commitment to provide better care at

CHOWAN HOSPITAL

Staffed by a licensed physical therapist and 3 trained technicians, providing rehabilitation treatments as referred by your physician.

* Private whirlpool sessions for treatment of arthritis or soft tissue injuries.

* Pain management without side effects through ultrasound, TENS, and other treatments.

* Exercise programs designed for your individual needs following illness or injury.

PROVIDING REHABILITATION FOR:

- * Hospital Patients
- * Skilled Nursing Patients
- * Outpatients

WITH GOALS OF:

- * Relieving Pain
- * Regaining Strength
- * Regaining Motion
- * Achieving Independence

Virginia Road • Edenton, N.C.
482-8451