EDUCATION

Apostle Wins Award

GREENSBORO - Dr. Randolph T. Blackwell, who has forsaken wealth and recognition in order to help create a better life for the rural poor in the deep South, was named winner of North Carolina A&T State University's annual alumni excellence award.

Blackwell, executive director of the Southern Rural Action Inc., was presented his award Sunday during the university's 84th annual baccalaureate-commencement.

Presenting A&T's highest alumni award to Blackwell, a 1949 graduate of the university, was Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor.

Since organizing the private poverty-fighting agency in Atlanta, Ga. in 1966, Blackwell has directed its efforts which have resulted in the creation of 19 black-owned businesses and jobs for 2,000 minority persons.

The organization operates in rural Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, and has had one project (a water system) in Alamance County.
