Soul Train's Coming Attraction

Dionne Warwick, one of the most admired and highly regarded vocalists for over a decade, makes her second appearance on Soul Train this weekend.

Host Don Cornelius also greets on television's musical showcase Greg Perry, composer turned singer, and a new group, the Futures.

The lady who was "discovered" by Burt Bacharach and whose voice has been associated with some of his most memorable tunes, sings in gifted fashion, "Move Me No Mountain", "Take It

From Me" and "Getting It My Way".

Not content to be a performer of international fame, with countless awards and honors to her credit, Dionne Warwick has resumed work on a lifelong ambition, to earn a master's degree in music education.

Although not new to show business, having written and produced some of the most popular "crossover" soul-pop songs on the charts in recent years, Greg Perry is just getting started as a singer.

From his first album, "Variety Is The Spice of Life", he sings "Come On Down-Get Your Head Out Of The Clouds", and "One For The Road".

Closing out the talent are the Futures with their rendition of "I Had A Dream".

Fisher Named

He has worked as Virginia Union's director of federal relations, as director of financial aid at Virginia State, as assistant professor of continuing education at Virginia State, and as a teacher in Philadelphia.

He was an apprentice embalmer and funeral director at Fisher Funeral Home in Durham from 1963 to 1967. He attended North Carolina Central University at that time, before transferring to Virginia Union.

Fisher is an licensed funeral director, having completed the associate in applied science degree in mortuary science at John Tyler Community College in Chester, Va., in 1975.

As sports information director at NCCU, the first for whom a position has been budgeted, Fisher will be responsible for the preparation of athletic programs and brochures, for compilation and maintenance of athletic statistics, and for the preparation and distribution of news releases to newspapers and broadcasting stations.

He will conduct his operation from the office of the athletic director.
