Sensing the educational needs of the community in a rapidly changing civilization A. and T. has endeavored to create a situation wherein the potential high school graduates of North Carolina may be given a many-sided view of college life in order that they may be influenced to continue their education.

Invitations are extended to all high school seniors, the school principal and two chaperones appointed by him. Each school is required to send a list of all persons who will be present at the affair to Prof. N. C. Webster, Chairman, Athletic Committee, A. and T. College, by October 28.

The college athletic committee has planned a varied program in conjunction with the game. Registration

Dean Pickens Talks On War

OUTCOME TO CONTROL DESTINY OF NEGRO

Speaker Is Defense Savings Assistant Of U. S. Treasury

"The American Negro has more at stake in this war than any racial group in the United States, and the outcome of the war will control the destiny of the Negro for hundreds of years," declared Dean William Pickens, assistant on the defense savings staff of the United States treasury department, recently, in a speech at A. and T. College. The speech was in connection with the national defense program.

"In spite of its political and social evils, America allows the freedom which is not enjoyed in other countries," he said. The speaker further said, "If the fascist and dictatorial element in America ever gained control of the government, the Jew would be placed at the bottom, but the Negro would be placed under the bottom."

"There is nothing more American in America than its 15,000,000 Negroes. We are Americans, not Africans," he declared. He further asserted that the Negro has always done his part in the defense of his country.

The speaker said that nine-tenths of the white population are absolutely ignorant of the fact that George Washington had 5,000 Negroes in his army at Valley Forge. Histories and moving pictures are propaganda instruments which stress the strength of nations and hide their weaknesses, he continued and related many instances wherein the Negro had served his country without receiving credit in American histories.

Dean Pickens maintained, however, that although America is not the ideal democracy, it is steadily improving, and Negroes are able to and should fight to make the true democracy an actuality.

He warned that after the war there would be a depression similar to the economic crisis which followed the world war. "The Negro man will be the first fired and the last hired," he declared, and admonished the audience to begin saving now. As a safe investment he suggested United States defense bonds. He pointed out that these bonds are non-transferable, and owners would be protected from sharks who would try to buy them at a reduction as they did in the world war. In buying these bonds the purchasers could be promoting the program of the government as well as helping themselves.

"This is our America, and let us do our part in it," he concluded.

Dr. F. D. Bluford, president of the college, introduced the speaker.

Dr. Charles Myers Speaks at A. and T.

"We are all marred by the world, the flesh, and the devil," declared Dr. Charles F. Myers, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Greensboro, who was the principal speaker at A. and T. College vespers services Sunday. The speaker took his text from Jeremiah 18:3-4: "Then I went down to the potter's house, and, behold, he wrought a work on the wheels. And the vessel that he made of clay was marred in the hand of the potter: so he made it again another vessel, as seemed good to the potter to make it."

"What the borer does for the tree, sin does for you and me," said Dr. Myers. He declared, however, that no matter how possessed with iniquity we might be, even as the potter remade the vessel, God can remake our lives.

The speaker was introduced by President F. D. Bluford. Scripture and prayer were offered by B. N. Roberts, professor of English, and Dr. J. M. Smith, professor of sociology and religion, respectively.

The A. and T. choir under direction of Warner Lawson sang: "The Lord is in His Holy Temple"; "And the Glory of the Lord"; "Hallelujah"; and "Lord, I Want To Be a Christian". Marjorie Johnson, soprano, sang "The Ninety and Nine." James Derr accompanied on the organ.

According to the report which local auditors have submitted, the college has again closed the year free from all debt, both current and capital. Moreover, the budget for the year, which was met in full, closed with a small surplus on the right side of the ledger of $164,768.

The assets of the college were $1,463,304 on June 30, according to the auditors' report. Capital account gifts for the year amounted to approximately $250,000, of which $231,000 were spent for new buildings. They are, Carrie Barge Hall, a dormitory for juniors, and the Annie Merner Pfeiffer Chapel and Little Theater, which will be formally dedicated on November 2.

String Tribute To David Jones

The dedication this week-end of the new chapel and theater building at Bennett College is, among other things, a striking tribute to the vision of labor of the man who came to Greensboro 16 years ago, when Bennett was an institution with meager physical equipment, a small faculty, and only 10 students of college standing. He is David D. Jones, A. B., A. M., LL.D. (honorary), under whom this institution for the higher education of Negro women is rapidly developing into one of the foremost private colleges of its type in the country.

A native of Greensboro, Dr. Jones was born in this city and remained here until he was 11 years of age, when he went to live in New Orleans. He received his undergraduate training at Wesleyan University in Connecticut, and at Columbia University in New York City. Dr. Jones is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Following his graduation from Wesleyan in 1911, Dr. Jones was for three years secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., and from 1914 to 1923 he was executive secretary of the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. St. Louis, Mo. He came to Bennett in 1926 after serving for three years as field agent for the Commission on Inter-Racial Cooperation in Africa.

Married, is the father of four children. Dr. Jones holds several posts of importance in the church and educational world. He is a member of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of the Southern Educational Foundation, and of the National Boys' Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. He is also on the Board of Trustees of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation.

Hall and Mrs. Rosa Taylor Winchester, are successfully closing their 1941 plan of work and are now making preparation for a new 1942 plan of work. There are 14 4-H clubs in the county, with an enrollment of around 310 girls and 278 boys, with each boy and girl in the club carrying a project.

In the farm and home agent 1942 plan of work, the boys will carry poultry and dairying as their major project, and the girls will carry foods and nutrition as their major project.

Both agents feel that these two projects should prove most helpful to each 4-H club member in helping them to better prepare themselves in helping with the national defense pro-
