FRANCES GOODRICH DIES AT 87

Nationally known for her promotion of southern mountain handicrafts, Miss Frances L. Goodrich died at her home in Asheville Monday at the age of 87. Funeral services were held yesterday.

More than 50 years ago, Miss Goodrich came to the North Carolina mountain country from Binghamton, N. J., and in 1895, she founded the Allenstand Community Center in Asheville, later widely known as the Southern Highlands Handicraft Industries with producing centers in Virginia, Kentucky, Georgia, and Tennessee as well as North Carolina.

It will serve as a lasting memory. In 1939 she established a museum at Asheville as a permanent record of mountain industries and tribute to her own work of half a century.

Miss Josephine Connor, of Salisbury, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Carrie Johnson, and Miss Ivesta Connor, of 406 Cole street.

Third Layman's Address Given At Browning Chapel

Mrs. Sadie L. Shepherd gave an inspiring message Sunday morning to the congregation of Browning Chapel. In Mrs. Shepherd's talk she said "The heart of every Christian is torn apart by this war, and every Christian knows that war is not the right way in which to settle a conflict, yet it is done and we must do our part in helping others to remember to cling closer to our Savior.

It was very fitting for Mrs. Shepherd to mention our future church, "The Children," she related the time when the Master showed greatest displeasure with his disciples when they kept the children away from him, and today the modern church should be interested in the health, play and education of the children of its community.

In Mrs. Shepherd's closing remarks she asked the congregation as a group to join in extending the kingdom of God in our Community and city.

A very successful rally was held at Browning Chapel Sunday night. The members of the church were divided into nine groups and each leader was asked to raise $25. Every group raised or surpassed the amount asked for in the rally. It showed real church spirit and willingness to work.

DR. D. W. HENRY VESPER SPEAKER

Dr. D. W. Henry, well known clergyman and pastor of the Tindley Temple Methodist church of Philadelphia, spoke to the regular Bennett College vesper service Sunday afternoon, on the subject, "All the Rivers Run Into the Sea."

Said Dr. Henry in his address, "To be our best in whatever we do is the monumental meaning of life." He further asserted, "We can never do the best within us or nurture that service within us unless we are inspired by some deep and cherished ambition which we highly crave. The real meaning of living can never be achieved until this point in life is fully realized. In this alone lies true success."

The choir, under the direction of Orrin Clayton Sutherland II, at the organ, sang, "O Praise Ye the Name of the Lord"—Goldsworthy and "My Way's Cloudy"—Burleigh, the solo part being rendered by Miss Priscilla Browne.

FESTIVAL GIVEN BOY AND GIRL SCOUTS

A festival was given for the boy and girl scouts of Greensboro at the Windsor Community Center, Monday, February 21.

The festival was given under the supervision of the Future Outlook and staff. Games were directed and conducted by Mr. G. T. Channel. Refreshments were served free by the Coca Cola Bottling company. A large number of boys and girl scouts were presented at the festival, and enjoyed it very much.

Miss Parker Speaks At A. & T. College

"The things for which the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People are fighting for in America are so closely identical to the proclaimed war ideals that we fail to see any difference in fighting for freedom from fear on the European fronts as to protesting against them on the home fronts," declared Miss Ella Baker, director of NAACP branches in an address at A. and T. College, Friday morning.

The speaker concluded by saying that the organization is no more radical than the Constitution of the United States, pointing out that the association has won 17 victories out of 18 cases carried to the Supreme court.

Miss Baker appeared in Greensboro under the auspices of the local branch.
