Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

The Real Fromage in Fact

By IRVIN S. COBB

TWO OF Broadway's typical products were invited to spend an evening at the Fifth Avenue home of a wealthy patron. The guests knew a great deal about musical shows and about picking winners at the races.

tracks and when he came to rolling a sucker for his money, they acknowledged no superiors. But in certain departments of knowledge both of them were just a trifle shy.

Observing that they seemed somewhat self-conscious, their host undertook to make them feel more at home. He made the mistake, though of picking on literature as a topic. Across the dinner-table he said to one of them:

"How do you like Omar Khayyam?"

"Oh, pretty good," said the person addressed, "but a bottle of this here red Chianti suits me better."

On the way home the second Broadwayite took his friend to task for his ignorance.

"Bo," he said, "when you don't understand a thing why don't you keep your mouth shut? Why, you big stiff, this here Omar Khayyam ain't no wine. It's a brand of cheese."

BID FOR OVERHEAD BRIDGE LET

The State Highway and Public Works Commission opened bids in Raleigh Tuesday for projects throughout North Carolina. Among the bids let was the overhead bridge project at the corner of King Street and Railroad Avenue. The contract was awarded to L. Riddle and Co. of Asheville, N. C., for $26,487.45. This amount was for the bridge alone and does not include the grading and street work and paving leading to the bridge.

A crew from the State Highway

Department is now at the site as week surveying the approach to the bridge. It is understood that the fill at the intersection will be eleven feet high and in front of Plunk Motor Co. on Railroad Avenue, will be eight feet.

Mark the days on your calendar because every woman—and man—in the community is hereby extended cordial invitation to see, absolutely free, this fascinating picture which weaves helpful intelligent lessons on cooking and home-making in a humorous and romantic plot.

The motion Picture Cooking School is a brand new idea. First conceived last year, it has met with acclaim from women throughout the country, who like the happy combination of sparkling entertainment and close-up cooking instruction. Seats in the back row are as good as those in the front row—the motion picture permits everyone to hear and see every trick in frosting a cake, making a pie, or cooking bananas.

"Star In My Kitchen" was produced in Hollywood, and the audience will recognize many of the rising young actors and actresses who take part in it. When young and old will appreciate the humanness of the romantic story, in which home problems are approached from an entirely new angle.

The Motion Picture Cooking School has graduated beyond the demonstration course in the wide variety of household equipment assembled in clear view of the audience. All of the practical equipment is seen in active use, and because "seeing is believing," the audience will soon learn that pies and cakes and salads can make them "stars" in their kitchens.

Experienced housekeepers will thrill to the adventures of the young Deedee Abot, who suddenly finds herself with a large home to manage and several mouths to feed—as well as a handsome young movie actor to impress.

What happens when she tries to make a fluffy lemon meringue pie or a marshmallow chocolate cake? What happens when the "man of the hour" drops in for dinner?

To unravel the mystery in advance would be to rob this clever tale of its novel approach. However, the audience is due to share in a rollicking good story and to learn much about home-making at the same time.

Ever listener will find a harvest of practical ideas among the suggestions for more efficient home-making, covering such daily problems as laundry, refrigeration, up-to-date entertaining, beauty secrets, news of modernized home equipment and tips on making these mechanical servants yield the highest degree of usefulness.

It will be a real cooking class, just as though the model kitchens were right on the stage, and all of the popular features of the old-type cooking school are retained: free recipe sheets, the atmosphere of congenial informality, the wise counsel, the hints on clever short-cuts, and the distribution of daily gifts and surprises.

Accept the invitation of the Herald and plan to join your neighbors in the Dixie Theatre on Sept. 22, 23, and 24.

Sidewalk And Paving Projects Are Approved

Aged Woman Passes Monday Night

Town Attorney J. R. Davis recently reprinted the letter below, Wednesday morning, stating that the sidewalk and street paving WPA project had been officially approved. Attorney Davis immediately wrote Mr. Richardson that the Town of Kings Mountain would be ready to begin work as soon as the project call for about six miles of sidewalks and for the paving of both sides of Railroad Avenue from Mountain to Gold. Property owners will be called on to pay 15¢ a running foot towards the cost of the sidewalk paving; this amount may be paid in three payments, over a period of two years.

Citizens should rejoice over this news as Kings Mountain has needed new sidewalks for several years, the paving can now be had with very little cost to the town or its property owners. George Allen assisted in getting the project in shape for official action and approval.

The letter to Attorney Davis follows:

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

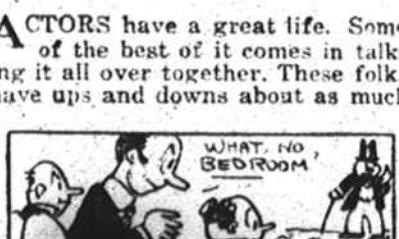

(Opinions Expressed in This Column Are Not Necessarily the Views of This Newspaper.)

Rapidly developing testimony before the Congressional Committee investigating subversive activities in the U. S. has uncovered the new method of Communists and radicals in cloaking their actual names and activities behind "fronts." In addition it was adduced that the "front" names were so effective that they resulted in many patriotic Americans becoming members.

Among the Communist-controlled or outright Communist organizations named by witnesses were the American League for Peace and Democracy, the Workers' Alliance, and the American Student's Union.

Even the most seasoned Washington observers, however, have now had their eyes opened to the extent to which Communists and other radas any people in the world, I reckon, but they hardly ever cry about it. One of them maybe has his name in big lights this week, and next month he's imitating a thunder-storm off in the wings somewhere. He gets just as much fun out of talking it over as he ever did, though.

Two actors were talking, in a little restaurant in New York, about this year's shows and last year's shows. They found out that it was awful hard to remember what the shows of last year were. Even an actor forgets them that quick.

"Well," said one of them, "what I'm talking about is the show last year that didn't have any bed in it. You remember?"

"No," said the other one, "I don't think I do. No bed in it. That must have been the 'Miracle'!"
