

New Battle Of Kings Mountain As Outfit Fights Ravages Of Nature

Scene of Revolutionary Struggle Is Worksite of Co. 4479 at York.

The article reprinted below appeared in a recent issue of Happy Days, The National Weekly Newspaper, for the Civilian Conservation Corps, published at Washington, D. C. Rev. P. D. Patrick who preached near the battleground secured a copy of the publication, and the article is copied here, as it is of interest to Kings Mountain readers. The article follows:

"Late in 1780 an important battle was fought on the right of Kings Mountain in South Carolina. The Battle of Kings Mountain was the turning point of the Revolutionary War as the American forces under Lieut. Col. James Hawthorne turned back the British troops under Maj. Ferguson, delaying Cornwallis' march to the north and bringing about his ultimate defeat."

On this historic spot, another great battle is being fought today by CCC men. It is a battle between men and the elements of nature, with Co. 4479, York, S. C., doing the work.

The outfit, organized on July 25, 1935, is charged with the development of a recreational-demonstration area, including three lakes and three group camps, on the site of the Revolutionary War engagement. The Co. 4479 crews also work on the Kings Mountain National Military Park which includes the area of the battleground proper. The work is being done on land in excess of 10,000 acres including recreation park and military park.

Education is popular. Leading all camp activities in the interest in the educational program. Close co-operation of the Army and technical service personnels . . . of the state department of education interested private citizens, has brought out a well-rounded program generally recognized as the equal of any in the state.

The program is versatile and thorough. All men are reached by some educational activity, with the peak of the program being reached last February when 4134 man-hours of instruction were given. This record bested those of all camps in South Carolina at that time.

The men are afforded an excellent opportunity of learning a trade on the projects, also. The large part of the work involves carpentry, concrete construction, soil conservation, landscaping, mechanics and allied trades.

Textile Board Will Be Named

Washington, Sept. 12.—Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the wage-hour law, said today he would announce tomorrow the membership of an industry committee to determine minimum wage rates for the textile industry.

A similar committee on wage conditions in the tobacco industry, he added, would be announced later in the week.

The law authorizes the administrator to appoint industry committees to determine the highest minimum wage economically feasible in any industry. It must be between 25 cent and 40 cents an hour.

Rayon, silk and cotton are certain to be included in the scope of the committee's work but inclusion of underwear still is tentative, Andrews told a press conference.

First Baptist To Conduct Open Forum Discussions At Sunday Night Service

Beginning Sunday night, and continuing each Sunday through October, the First Baptist Church, A. G. Sargeant, will conduct a series of Open Forum Discussions on Problems vital to the Christian life. Each person in attendance is invited to participate in the discussion. Every person's views on the question under discussion will be heard. Your presence puts you in the program of the evening. A search will be made to find the TRUTH. The Question Sunday night will be "Can I Know God's Will For My Life?" Scripture: Romans 12:1-2.

The following angles of the discussion will be presented:

1. "What grounds have you for the belief that God has a plan and a purpose for your life?"
2. "What provisions has God made whereby we may know His Will?"
3. "Can you suggest some hinderance to knowing God's will?"
4. "If we refuse God's best, does He offer us a second best?"
5. "Name some signs by which you may know you are in God's will."
6. "If you accept any other plan for your life but the Divine plan, suggest some possible outcomes."
7. "Are you making an effort to live daily in God's Will?"

All Counties Asked To Exhibit At Fair

County farm agents, boards of commissioners, and superintendents of education all over North Carolina have been invited to prepare county progress exhibits for the State Fair, October 11-15, according to an announcement from F. H. Jeter, agricultural editor at State College.

At the fair, the counties will be given space to feature the achievements they have made in education, rural life, and industry, said Mr. Jeter, who has been named superintendent of the county progress department.

He stressed the desire of the management to have the exhibits present a true and well balanced picture of the work that is being done in these three outstanding fields, and said that the way an exhibit is prepared will count more than the quality of individual articles that may be shown.

In the field of education, he suggested, may be shown the new progressive ideas and accomplishments in the public schools that have been fostered by county or city departments of education.

In the field of rural life, improved farm and home methods should be displayed to show definite accomplishments on the land by rural men and women, boys and girls, along with some of the major programs that have received the support of all farm people.

In the field of industrial development should be exhibited the progress made in the major industries and commercial development of the county, whether in mining, manufacturing, lumbering, catering to tourists, or other permanent enterprises.

The winners of the first four prizes will probably receive $1,750 in cash.

Beefsteak Pie . . . a thrifty delectable one-dish meal

Meat pies are in the British tradition and it is easy to understand why their savory goodness has also made them a national favorite here. They are hearty enough to be a meal in themselves and served once a week or so, they add pleasing variety to the menu.

Of the different kinds of meat pies at the housewife's choice, beefsteak pie must be given first place in popularity, perhaps because it so happily combines the two virtues of economy and deliciousness. Enriched with a flaky pastry covering, it is extra tasty.

For your beefsteak pie you will need the following:

- 2 pounds round steak
- 2 onions, sliced
- 4 tablespoons Spry, the new all-vegetable shortening
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
- 2 cups raw potatoes, sliced
- 2 tablespoons flour

Cut steak in pieces and sauté with onions in 2 tablespoons Spry until brown. Put in kettle and add salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and parsley. Add boiling water to just cover; simmer 30 minutes. Add potatoes and cook 45 minutes longer. Blend 2 tablespoons Spry and flour; add a little of the meat mixture, re-turn to kettle and cook until thick. Add rest of meat mixture. Press dampened particles together into a ball. Do not handle dough any more than necessary.

size to cover casserole, allowing 1 inch extra all around. Cut dough into 6 wedges and arrange on hot meat. Turn edges under and press on rim. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 20 minutes. Serves 6.

A tender, flaky pastry covering is made with:

- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup Spry
