An Old Citizen Relates His Experience

(By I. B. Goforth as told to Don Abernethy)
 How long have you been taking Kings Mountain Herald Mr. Goforth? I have been taking the Herald since 1897. I remember when the Herald was operated by H. P. Allison and he had as assistants Leslie McGinnis and C. E. Russell. Of course all the type was laboriously set by hand and it took all the force all the week preceding the issue to accomplish the feat of getting out the regular weekly paper. As far as I know they never missed a copy.
 I started carrying the mail March 2, 1902, and carried a route for thirty one year and seven months. My entire life has been spent in and around Kings Mountain.
 I attended the Old Kings Mountain Academy as a youth and remember most distinctly a commencement while Dr. Bickle was headmaster, the explosion of a lamp. There was a large crowd in attendance and I never saw a place clear out as soon as that did. The fire however, was of no consequence as it was soon extinguished. Capt. Bell held his commencement in an arbor in the woods where Miss Carlyle Ware's building stands. They had a band that came from Steel Creek, near Charlotte, and I have never to this day seen a band that was like it. As a small boy I would climb up on the band stand to get as near to the musicians as possible.
 Mr. Goforth, was the community very temperate and was there any moonshine made nearby? Yes, the community as a whole was very temperate. The most troublesome were usually ones who were strangers. There were several stills within a mile or so of town. I remember one instance when a man, I don't remember who he was, was running wild. The police shot at him and he ran into the house on the corner just below the post office (the one on the corner that has just been moved) and barricaded himself. He finally saw that there was not a chance so he jumped out of the back window and ran, as he did the officers shot and killed him.
 About 1901 a negro walked out of a barber shop and was shot down. I saw the negro as he lay on the street.
 Have you witnessed any big fires? In '9 or '97 the town was practically demolished and as I remember now W. A. Mauney's store and Mr. Carpenter's store were the only buildings left.
 I remember another killing that happened in the late nineties. A negro killed Policeman Jones in Shelby. A large posse was formed to hunt the killer and they were mounted on horseback. They came by home and borrowed a saddle for one of the horses. I never got the saddle back. Buffalo Creek was at high flood and the bridge was floating six or seven feet from the bank. Ben Harmon told the outfit that he would jump the distance with his mule. He turned the animal from the creek and getting a good start ran at full gallop the mule making the jump successfully. Dr. Hunter followed as did the others, all making the jump successfully. We never knew what happened, whether the murderer was apprehended or not but the case died down and general opinion was that the posse caught him that night and killed him.

Have there been any train wrecks that you remember? Yes, I remember when No. 37 turned over, near the Coa Mill. The engineer, Bull, was scalded to death. It was most horrible. Mr. Bull was an excellent man and one of the finest looking men I have ever seen.

Who was the Country Doctor, Mr. Goforth? Dr. Tracy was the physician who ministered to the people of this vicinity. I can remember him and his white horse. Sometimes he was horseback and at others he traveled by buggy. He was a man beloved by all and did a great work in this then, frontier town.

During those days I have seen a team of six or eight mules pulling one cord of wood. Not only on a country road but down the main street of Kings Mountain. There were cobble stones at the crossings and I remember when Oscar O'Farrell was married and as gallantly as he could tried to help his new bride cross a muddy street on the cobble stones. He would step around to help her and step off into the mud, sometimes over his shoe tops and some times up to his knees. It was a funny sight.

The loafing place back in the early days was at Capt. Suggs Drug Store which stood where Mountain View now stands. I can well remember his bird dogs lying around the stove. P. R. Hay had a cannery near by where an automobile company now stands.

William Jennings Bryan once made a speech near the Kings Mountain Mfg. Co. I have never seen such a crowd of people attend a speaking. They had come for miles around to hear the great orator.

Did you know Plato Durham? Yes, I knew Plato and Ben Dixon. They were close friends of mine. I remember when Plato spiked a player very severely at a ball game. I also remember when Ben said: "Let's walk as straight to the top of that mountain as we can (Kings Mountain)." We struck out and made the trip but I have never been over rougher country in all my life. Those were great days.
