SOCIAL NOTES OF YESTER YEAR

Fulton-Baker—1898
Cards are out for the marriage of Miss Sallie Baker, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Baker and Mr. H. Thomas Fulton, the popular salesman at the Enterprise Mill on next Wednesday the 30th at 8:00 o'clock, P. M., at the residence of the bride. The invitations were issued from the Observer Office and are quite neat.

1903
A STORM PARTY
Some of the young people of our town surprised Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Dilling on Monday night by giving them a storm party. They met at Miss Eunice Hunter's and went in a body to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dilling. They took in the situation and threw their doors wide open and gave the folks a good time.

"Trail" was the prevailing game. They also had music of various kinds. The following were present: Misses Irene Schull Edna M. Brooks; Eunice Hunter Virginia Jones and Ida Ware and Messrs. Cole, Hugh Wray and Doris Mauney.

THORNE-JACKSON—1905

One of the most beautiful church weddings ever witnessed in our town was solemnized on Wednesday evening of last week when Robt. Thorne, a promising railroad man of North Dakota led Miss Elizabeth Jackson, a very popular and intelligent young lady of our town to the hymeneal altar. Her pastor, Rev. M. L. Vestal, performed the marriage ceremony in touching and solemn language.

(Misses Carlyle Ware, Lillian Williams, Fary Long and Rosa Ken, drck acted as bridesmaids, while Jack Chadler, Osroe Ormand, Preston McGill and T. C. Bailey meeting were at the altar through different sides, atted as groomsmen, respectively. The bride carried bride's roses and ferns and was gowned in a beautiful white tulle trimmed by real lace and silk braids. The bridesmaids wore white organdies and carried bouquets of white carnations.

Mr. G. B. Hamton of Landrum, S. C. uncle of the groom was best man while Miss Annie Jackson, a veener o' the bride acted most becomingly as maid of honor. All the gentlemen were faultlessly attired and the entire group were as beautiful as a picture.

The ribbon girls were little Misses Clara Russell Mary Fulton, Kathleen William and Margaret McLaurin and these never looked sweeter or acted nicer. Little Margaret Kerr acted as flower girl while Joe Neisler had charge of the ring, as ring boy. These two also acted their parts to perfection.

Miss Fairy Long in her easy and touching tones sang "Oh Perfect Love just before the ushering of the bridal party. At the closing of the song by Miss Long the notes of the wedding march began to sound forth from the organ under the perfect touch of Miss Katie Garret and the bridal party came in through different aisles, meeting at altar where everything had been set in order by friends of the contracting parties.

Without going into details we might say the church was most elegantly and tastefully decorated for the occasion. The present were numerous, handsome and useful, consisting of cut glass, silver, tableware and household articles.

Soon after the ceremony the couple left on No 40 for a ten days visit to the parents of the groom, after which they will proceed to his home in North Dakota and settle down to house keeping.

BOOK CLUB
The Thursday Afternoon Book Club met at the home of Mrs. R. L. Mauney.

The weather being favorable only two members failed to respond to roll call.

The Club was entertained with a sewing contest. Each lady given needle and thread and required to outline an animal. Some of the outlines were splendid while others would have made the real animal ashamed of himself.

Miss Willie McGinnis played the role of a witch splendidly, foretelling the future in a most ludicrous manner. The home of the witch was a weird corner, where one saw bats, black cats and the like.

Last and best of all came an elegant and most delicious two-course salad lunch served by Misses Grace Rudisill and Willie McGinnis.

IN HONOR OF MRS. CROUSE
Thursday afternoon Mrs. W. A. Ridenhour and Mrs. Doris Mauney entertained at the home of Mrs. Ridenhour at an informal party in honor of Mrs. Arthur Crouse who as bride, has recently come to our city. The welcome extended her was warm and cordial.

The unique amusement of the hour excited hearty hand-clapping and recurrent laughter. A "New Year" book for 1914 urged each one present to turn over a new leaf and resolve immediately to write, read, sing a solo, given an original story

Mr. Haywood E. Lynch
Editor
The Kings Mountain Herald
Kings Mountain, N.C.

My dear Mr. Lynch;

I am pleased to have this opportunity to extend to the Kings Mountain Herald my heartiest congratulations and best wishes upon its 50th Anniversary of constructive service to the people of Kings Mountain and community.

No publication is held in higher esteem by its devoted readers than The Herald and I am delighted to join with you in the celebration of The Herald's 50th Anniversary and to wish for it many more years of the same type of constructive leadership.

Sincerely yours,

Virginia Bird

act a Charade, execute a drawing or do any stunt that best suited them. Mrs. Neisler, who is good at drawing, produced a long eared, long legged donkey and astride his back a round humping youngster.

Some of the guests sang songs and some gave reading. The whistling lady received great commendation. A dainty lunch of salads and confections brought to a close this enjoyable function.

WITH MRS. DILLING

Mrs. W. S. Dilling delightfully entertained last Wednesday afternoon at a Rook party. Her invitations were issued and notwithstanding he had weather there was no cause for regret.

The guests were cordially greeted by the hostess and shown to the living room where Miss Emelyn Dilling gave them score card. By these the guests were guided to the table where many enthusiastic games were indulged in. The tables were placed in the hall, parlor and living room all gay in their decorations of palms, ferns and bright spring flowers.

Late in the afternoon the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. T. Fulton and Miss Martha Simonton served an elegant three course luncheon.

The hospitable home radiated cheer with its glowing fires and bright lights.

VIRGINIA BIRD BIRTHDAY PARTY

1:31-11—1:31-16
"Come to Grandma Kendrick's And bring your doll you see To Virginia's birthday party Which begins at half past three.

Each doll that's invited Must be sure to have a name For while you're at the party We'll try to guess the same."

The above invitations were sent to the girls and the following to the boys: "Come to Grandma Kendrick's at half past three. She's giving a birthday party for Virginia Bird, you see."

Esquire and Mrs. G. W. Kendrick gave a birthday party Monday afternoon in honor of their little five year old grand-daughter, Virginia Bird of Columbia, S. C.

The little guests were met at the door by Mildred Moss and shown to the cloak room.

Frances Ware then took them to the parlor, where they were greeted by the receiving line composed of Virginia Bird and Nick Moss.

Each child carried a doll and each doll had a name. A guessing contest was much enjoyed. William Hord won the prize, a handkerchief, for guessing the correct name of more dolls, than any one else.

The guests were led after the contest, to the dining room by Virginia Bird and George Moss and were served home-made candy, cake and hot chocolate. The dining room table was (Cont'd on Editorial page)

In Only Fifty Years

We Americans are inclined to accept the many marvelous scientific development with a certain degree of nonchalance and indifference. We have seen oil lamps replaced by cleaner, safer, and more convenient electric lamps; we have witnessed the development of the radio, airplane, motion picture and electric refrigerator. Each one of these marvels plus many others are commonplace with us today contributing immeasurably to our comfort, convenience and happiness.

Industries of every kind have originated and flourished because of electric service. More goods for more people at less cost have been possible because American ingenuity and electric service have combined to accomplish the otherwise impossible. Workers in industry have increased their earning capacity because they can produce more through the power controlled by the pushing of a switch. So also, more jobs have been created because of new and improved products which in many instances have built great new industries.

In the home, electric service has revolutionized living, giving more leisure, eliminating drudgery and providing numberless conveniences — all these at a cost so unbelievably low that it has made these marvels of living available to the humblest homes.

All this progress has come about within the short space of the last fifty years — most of it within the lifetime of most of us. And this progress will continue at an even more rapid pace because of the desire of the American people for better things and their faith in the future.
