

Summer Critical Period For Lawns

July and August is the critical period for your lawn, advises John H. Harris, landscape specialist of the State College Extension Service. The lawn mower should be set high to prevent cutting the grass too close, and unless facilities are available for continuous watering, it is better not to start, he said.

The usual cause of brown lawn in summer is insufficient humus in the soil, Harris stated. In order to hold moisture, the soil must have of ganic matter such as manure, woods mold, the soil must have organic matter such as manure, woods mold, peat moss, or some other similar material. No amount of commercial fertilizer will replace this necessary element.

The Extension specialist further advised that those shrubs that have finished flowering may still be pruned. If seed pods are removed from pink spiraea, it will bloom several times during the summer. All seed pods and old flowers should be removed from flowers to keep them blooming. If shrubs are to be kept attractive, they should never be cut flat across the top, but, instead should be thinned out from the ground, removing old canes and per haps shortening the more vigorous ones, Harris explained.

Small shrubs and trees, especially newly planted ones, should be worked around just as if they were a crop. A good substitute for cultivating, however, is a mulch of leaves, straw, or other such material. No grass should be allowed to grow around small plants. It is especially important to mulch azaleas, rhododendrons, and other acid-loving plants since several of these plants will not tolerate cultivation around their roots.

FEW SIMPLE RULES TO MAKE SWIMMING SAFE

The season for swimming and other water sports need not be marred by tragedies if simple precautions are observed, safety specialists of the National Conservation Bureau point out. They list the following rules for safety in the water:
1. Swim only at places protected by a guard.
2. Never swim alone.
3. Cooperate with guards by staying inside the safety lines.
4. Stay out of deep water unless you are sure of your swimming ability.
5. Do not go into the water immediately after eating.
Parents are urged to have their children learn to swim under a competent instructor.

AAA Compliance Work Requires Cooperation

Compliance check-ups are now being made under the AAA Program, and it is essential that the compliance supervisors have the full cooperation of each individual farmer, says E. Y. Floyd AAA executive officer of State College. "The acreage figures obtained at this time will form the basis for benefit payments," he explained.

Floyd said that compliance supervisors will visit every farm, and in the 80 counties where aerial photographs are available, the acreage noted to each crop will be designated on the individual farm map. The acreage will be checked for accuracy from the aerial photographs.

The AAA officer also called attention to soil-building practices which can be carried out at this season. While most farmers are too busy during July to build terraces, plant trees, etc., many can sow peas and other legumes and place orders for ground agricultural limestone and triple-superphosphate.

The Triple-Superphosphate and phosphate this year under the grant of aid system, Floyd advised. Orders are taken for the material now for immediate delivery on for delivery deducted from soil-building pay- in the fall. Except for freight and ments which will be received next bauling charges, there is no cash water. Of course, payments are of- outlay necessary at the time of de- livered for the use of life and phos- livery. The cost of the material is phate within soil-building goals.
