

AS IT GOES

By Virginia Logan

Autumn time is again drawing to a close. Business men are getting back to the old routine, housewives are beginning to wonder whether they should do fall cleaning or wait until next spring, and children are trying to decide who is their favorite school teacher. The very atmosphere suggests that fall is fast approaching. But we are glad, for after autumn we have winter, after winter we have spring, and then we are back to the good old summer time. Many people voice disapproval of the fall of the year. They say that it brings sadness — trees become bare, skies turn grey, and everything appears to be dead. We agree that there is a feeling of loneliness. But to be lonely is not to be entirely sad. Those who fear death are probably those who dislike autumn. Although trees appear to be dead, they are living. So is it with man.

Morris Bloom, the man who made correct predictions of what would happen on the battlefields and in the capitals of Europe in 1914-18, has passed once more into the crystal ball. This time he predicts that Adolf Hitler will commit suicide before long. Not one of Mr. Bloom's major predictions has ever gone wrong. We're wondering if Mr. Bloom will lose his reputation, or if the world will lose a dictator. 'Tis strange that a yankee would be named Dixie, but that happens to be the situation in which Dixie Cornell finds herself. We tried to show her a bit of the South while she was here, so perhaps she can justify her name. How about it, Phyl? Kings Mountain is taking on that educational look again. Well, maybe we shouldn't call it that, but anyway it looks better, and we feel better for having all of the school teachers back. Some of us are going to find it rather difficult to suddenly begin calling a couple of the women "Mrs. So-and-so."

Speaking of familiar faces in and around town, we might add that "Mikie" Barber is visiting here again. We like to have Mike around because it breaks the monotony of having to listen to so many horns. I prefer opera two to one!

This is the last paragraph that I shall write of AS IT GOES. A week from today I shall be back at Appalachian State, trying to learn something more about the English language. For approximately seventeen years I have spoken English, but I still can't speak it correctly. However, there is no need to stop trying now, because it looks as though Americans might be the only people who will be allowed to speak freely. So, until next summer, it's good-bye now!

FOUR & ONE

Well folks we're back again ... hoping that none of last week's caused any "supper off the mantle" cases.

First piece of news we picked up is the fact that George Thomason might challenge Ernest Mauney to cream puff at forty paces to see who will squire Doris White round this year ... the last time we were in Raleigh, the speedometer registered about 200 miles — a fer piece for Jones to travel on Sunday nites, but maybe some high school gal can s'umuser the handsome blonde ... reports are that Jim Page's little brother, Bill, is going to school here this year ... youse other guys better watch out or you'll be getting the gate ... did anybody else note the happy expression on Dick Baker's face while Mikie Barber was in town? ... NOTICE !!! ... any teacher who wants to ride the road of matrimony shouldn't miss it far if she teaches at K. M. ... for inside dope see Mesdames Craig and Hendricks ... what happened to all the janes who were to come to Leon Wolf's (you know, the budding Romeo) dance ??! Fancy more boys than gals ... and, too, what young man about town is having a hard time making up his mind between the Goforth dames?? (bet we've got you fooled on that one) ... warning to youse guys and gals who like to ride around — don't go out on dirt roads on rainy nights ... ask Junter and Eckie why! ... here's some thing we bet you didn't know ... Thomas Tindell and Betty Lou Roberts have up quite a case! BUT ?? wonder if Thomas' trip to Wash hington and this dame from Texas will have any effect ?? ... congrats to the K. M. gridders, they is doing a swell piece of work ... the more we find out about Betty Patrick, the less we know ... five smackers says that she snagged her a man in Frederickburg ... that dance last Tuesday went over in a big way thanks to Betty Lee and Rachael ... a swell bit of work my bonnie lassies ... by the way, them jitterbugs from Hickory sho is the stuff, if you don't agree just look at 'em some-time ... we sho did hate to see Eppie leave Tuesday and we wish him the best of luck while he's gone ... Well that's all until next week, see youse in school. ADIEU.

TOM AND GEORGE

Tom: "George, a young fellow was sporting what was supposed to be a mustache, and he said he was getting it on the installment plan; How could he get a mustache on the installment plan?" George: "That is easy; a little DOWN and more each week." If you are in the market for pillows, we have some that think there was nothing but down in them after your head lit on them.
