Cincinnati, Ohio, had the first bathtub in this country in 1842. He was denounced because bathing from head to toe was condemned as unhealthy. Today, the daily warm bath is advised for health and is made possible in innumerable homes by means of the economical automatic gas water heater.

Disease Spread When Poultry Over-Heated

Poultrymen are complaining that they are losing birds during the process of culling and vaccinating for fowl pox. C. F. Parrish, poultry specialist of the State College Extension Service, says most of the losses are due to crowding up, piling up, and over-heating.

"It is very unwise, even in the culling of flocks, to permit the birds to crowd or jam up in the corners, or in any way become over-heated," he says. "In many cases this results in outbreaks of respiratory trouble which take a heavy toll at this season of the year. If the birds are to be culled, and they should be culled to weed out the loafers, it would be well to cull them at night, if at all possible.

Take a flashlight and remove the non-layers from the roost without distributing the others.

If flocks are vaccinated for chick en pox, then it is suggested that they be placed on range in summer range shelters or that adequate housing facilities be provided, and that these birds be permitted to range at large or at least be provided with adequate range.

The system of vaccinating pullets and placing them back in a tight, stuffy brooder house is giving us poor results and is the cause of claried. The Extension specialist further stated that failure to provide houses large enough to permit the chickens freedom of movement and fresh air has always been a serious problem on North Carolina farms. When we allow birds to pile up, crowd up or become over-heated after handling, we are sure to receive ill results, Parrish concluded.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts! The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sore, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach acids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Bell-ans is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package serves 10. Ask for Bell-ans for indigestion.
