Earnings And Soil Show Improvement

Income improvement and conservation of natural resources have gone hand in hand in North Carolina since 1933, according to Dr. I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension Service.

Under the first agricultural conservation program in 1936, approximately 195,000 Tar Heel farmers participated. Of the total cropland, about 67 percent or 4,969,000 acres, was covered by applications for payments. A total of 605,212 acres was diverted from soil-depleting crops.

Soilbuilding practices were put in effect on about 1,090,000 acres as follows: New seedings of legumes and legume mixtures, perennial grasses for pasture, and green manure crops—1,019,975; fertilizer and lime applications, 42,700 acres; forest tree plantings, 395 acres; terracing, 26,485 acres; and miscellaneous, 770 acres.

North Carolina growers have continued to participate actively in the AAA programs. There were 192,246 receiving under the 1937 program and 291,144 under the 1938 program. Applications for payments covered 5,275,947 acres, or 65 percent of the cropland in the State, under the 1937 program, and 6,556,000 acres or 82 percent of the cropland, under the 1938 program.

In addition to the Agricultural Conservation Program, many North Carolina farmers have signed five year agreements with the Soil Conservation Service for complete programs of erosion control and good land management. At the first of this year, 8,460 farms, including 969,113 acres, were operating under such agreements.

With cotton growing well and with practically no boll weevil infestation, Chowan county farmers should harvest a good crop this year according to Farm Agent N. K. Rowell.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly your stomach often turns out too much food. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. It's distressing and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Maltin for Indigestion to break the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress, do no harm and put you back on your feet. Maltin is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Maltin for Indigestion.
