HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
 Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Steaks

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or slow poopy—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-sun for indigestion to make the stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package serves 11. Ask for Bell-sun for indigestion.

Vegetables Can Be Stored For Winter

There is no reason for discarding surplus vegetables, or for dumping them on a depressed market, says H. R. Niswonger, horticulturist of the N. C. State College Extension Service. But on the other hand, there is no use to store vegetables that are not of high quality, free from mechanical injuries, insects and diseases, and mature but not over-ripe.

"If you put an inferior, diseased damaged product in storage it will come out an inferior, diseased, damaged product, in worse condition than when it went in," Niswonger declared.

The problem of where to store vegetables is important, and the State College specialist makes the following recommendations, among this line: Beans and field peas may be put in a warm dry place in the attic until dried, and after being shelled the beans should be placed in tight containers and treated with carbon disulphide to control weevils.

Root crops, such as carrots, beets and turnips, should have the tops cut off, leaving short leaf stems, before storing. They may be stored in shallow crates and placed in the cellar. An occasional sprinkling with water will prevent shriveling. Cabbage and collards can best be stored in trenches out of doors. Another method commonly used in Eastern Carolina consists of pushing the heads of the plants toward the North and covering the stem and base of the heads with soil. The plants are thus left right in the row where they grew.

Sweet potatoes keep best in a dry place, and where the temperature throughout the storage period is a round 55 to 60 degrees. Onions should be kept in slatted crates in the attic where the atmosphere is dry and the temperature is around 50 degrees. A basement or cellar is not a good place to store onions. Pumpkins and squashes should also be stored in a warm dry room at a temperature of 50 degrees.

More than 2,500 persons were injured in traffic accidents in this state the first eight months of this year.
