Looking 'Em Over

(Wilma Troiano)

This column will feature a Junior Legion player every week. This week's nominee will be George Womack.

Womack has starred for four years in high school in three sports, football, baseball and basketball.

Last year George was the regular shortstop on the Junior Legion team. He proved to be a spark plug in double plays and came through with timely hits when needed.

George's team-mates and opponents had deep respect for him as a ball player. George will be one of the four regular players back with us this year.

Yesterday we had thirty-three candidates out for the team. All of these boys are working hard to make the team.

Until next week we will be "Looking 'em Over."

Temporary Pastures Can Boost Dairy Production

Dairy farmers need pasture to meet the National Defense call for increased production of milk, butter and cheese, John A. Arey, Extension dairyman of N. C. State College, says temporary pasture will help to tide the milk cows over the hot summer period, when permanent pastures usually dry up and furnish little, if any, feed.

Suitable crops for temporary summer pastures include soy beans, Sudan grass and millet. It is not too late to plant any of these crops. Lespedeza and clovers are other desirable summer pasture crops, but the planting season for these legumes and grasses has already passed.

Arey recommends Biloxi soybeans, seeded at the rate of one to two bushels per acre in close rows. They can be planted from now until June 15 or 20, and the best planting time is from now until June 1. Soybeans can be grazed from 60 days after seeding until frost.

Sudan grass can be seeded before July 1, at the rate of 40 pounds of seed per acre. This crop can be grazed from 40 days after seeding until frost. Foxtail millet, the third summer grazing crop, also can be planted before July 1. It is seeded at the rate of 30 pounds per acre in close rows, and will furnish grazing from 40 days after seeding until frost.

Good pastures are especially desirable this year, Arey said, because of the need for expanded dairy production under the Nation's Food for Defense program. Dairy products are linked with pork products, poultry products, and vegetables, especially tomatoes, as vital to defense needs both at home and in the other democracies.

The Kings Mountain Baseball Team journeyed to Shelby last Friday night and remained long enough to hand the strong team of Coach Morris an 8 to 1 defeat which completed the season for the Mountaineers. Last year the Shelby Team defeated Kings Mountain to knock them out of the Championship, but this year the Mountaineers weren't to be stopped. They climaxed the season by playing the best game during the year.

Charles Ballard was on the mound for the visitors and pitched a remarkable game by striking out 15 Shelby men and allowing only 4 hits. Floyd Smith, James Gibson, George Womack, Luther Ware and Foley Cobb led the attack for the Mountaineers, while the remaining members of the team played remarkable ball. Floyd Smith connected for triple, double and single for 3 trips to the plate. James Gibson in the ninth inning, smacked a beautiful home run. Morehead was best for Shelby at bat with 2 for 4.

Baseball Team Goes To Washington

The Kings Mountain Baseball Team who were crowned Champions of the Western Conference this year left for Washington immediately after the ball game with Shelby last Friday night and spent three days enjoying the sights of the beautiful capitol city. Some of the highlights of the occasion were spent watching the major leaguers smack and chase the ball, visiting the zee, White House, Capitol, Washington's Monument, and Mt. Vernon.

The Mountaineers arrived back in the home town at 11 o'clock Monday night where they were met by many supporters and friends.

A Word Of Thanks

Division Eager To Help In Traffic Regulations

Individuals and organizations that are anxious to do more about traffic safety than merely talk about it should get in touch with the North Carolina Highway Safety Division, Ronald Hecutt, director of that agency asserted this week.

"Street and highway safety," he said "is largely a localized problem, since traffic conditions, highway hazards and other factors in this complex problem vary in different sections. We can not by ourselves solve any community's traffic problem, but we can and will help local authorities. Interested organizations and civic-minded individuals to work out an effective safety program. Safety is a community as well as an individual responsibility."

"The Highway Safety Division is not in a position to carry on sustained safety activity in any one city or county. We can only instigate such activity. Local individuals, agencies and organizations must carry it on. We can act as a spark plug, but the fuel to keep the engine running must come from local

We try to supply tested ideas, materials and inspiration for safety activity, but the actual work, or the major part of it, must come from local people. That, I think, is as it should be. The people of every section should be vitally concerned over their own accident problems and should be willing to expend some effort to help stem the unnecessary slaughter of their fellow human beings. They can feel free to call on us for all possible assistance in solving these problems, he added.
