MYSTIC BEAUTIES

The sun rose up with all his might,
And chased the stars clear out of sight.

He cast his ray across the hills,
And saw the dancing daffodils.
And when the fairies saw him peep
A hiding place they went to seek.
He gave a little up to view,
A million pearls of shining dew.
And on his way to daily morn,
He saw the crystal on the lake.
He saw the sparkle in the mountain brook,
A kissing the flowers in every nook
And wondered if in the poet's dream,
These mystic beauties had been seen.

TRUST

Shakespeare says you can't trust a man who has no music in his soul. A banker will ask how much security he can give before he will trust him. But here's a new test of a man's character that is very good. He may have on a greasy hat and the seat of his pants may be shiny but if his children have their noses flattened against the window pane a half hour before he is due home for supper, he can be trusted.—Selected.

SUCCESS FOR SALE

You want success. Are you willing to pay the price for it?
How much discouragement can you stand?
How much bruising can you take?
How long can you hang on in the face of obstacles?
Have you the grit to try to do what others failed to do?
Have you the nerve to attempt things that no average man would ever dream of attempting?
Have you the persistence to keep on trying after repeated failures?
Can you cut out luxuries? Can you do without things that others consider necessities?
Can you go up against skepticism, ridicule, friendly advice to quit, without flinching?
Can you keep your mind steadily on the single object you are pursuing, rejecting all temptations to divide your attention?
Are you strong on the finish as well as quick at the start?
Success is sold in the open market. You can buy it—any man can buy it who is willing to pay the price.—Selected.

Their lovely home.
The dogwood are so pretty this year as I have ever seen them.

I read the following the other day and to me it has some real honest to goodness truth in it. Here it is: When you lose your wealth, you lose nothing. When you lose your health, you lose something. When you lose your character, you lose all.

I met Rev. Coyle Hunter who formerly lived here and was so desperately ill some time back, in town Tuesday afternoon. I remarked how fine he was looking and he replied, "I ought to have 26 peepers stuck in me. He was very grateful to those from Kings Mountain who came to his rescue and... blood for him. The former citizen who says that he feels better than he has in many years had a total of 26 blood transfusions, 16 blood plasma and 10 quarts of whole blood. The former captain in the U. S. Army is raring to get back into service on the same day his son, Coyle, Jr., enters.

My neighbor, Ned Moss, and I are having a friendly contest to see who can raise the prettiest flowers, but it looks as if Old Man Winter is going to put us both out of the race before we can get a single seed out of...

Byron Keeter has had so much trouble with possum, bird and rabbit hunting around his yard that he is building a fence around the place in hope that the big game hunters will seek their game elsewhere.

I caught Charlie Thomason and Frank Summers in a very patriotic act the other day. Frank was selling Charlie some war bonds. And if you don't believe that super-salesman President of the First National Bank will let you have some bonds, just ask him and see how quick he'll have your check or cash and you'll have the best investment on earth—WAR BOND.

Assistant Flight Commander Bill Davis who is down at Albany, Ga., and is a regular reader of The Herald noticed the article last week about Kings Mountain buying a flying fortress and has already applied for the job to fly the ship named for his hometown. I know another fellow who would like to soar skyward in

WE THREE SEE ALL

(Editor's Note: Will the editors of this column please stop by the Herald office at their earliest convenience.)

Well, here we are again, and everybody in high school has been read and suspected, but we wish to apologize to those who felt we misrepresented them. We mean to harm. Just a few of the cutest in the old K. M. Jerry Horu and Margie Wilson; John Rowland and Margaret Cashion; Charles Neider and Betty Hayes; Sally Saunders and Edna Ruth Houser. Well they are the couples—but there are a few who are just would be couples, they are Curt Payne and Peggy Smith; Dockie Stinson and Peggy Morris; and Harvey Lashier and Margie Barrett.

Since so many of the guys are gone from the civilian life, we have a few girls waiting patiently, such as Donna Greese, for Stogie, in the Navy; Mary Helen Smith, for J. W. M., in the Marines; by the way, had you heard that the faculty isn't doing so bad—well they aren't, or Miss Wright isn't—oh! Charles Thompson—Milton, can you make up your mind about Max?—or is it Peeler? Pat Ballard—you ain't doing so bad with a certain little guy—oh Snyre? Aris Nee, are you doing O. K. with Jimmy Burns? or are you? Tootale, do you miss Ben H. very much? The town seems pretty dull without Eddie Campbell, ah—what? We have a new (pretty swell) coach, Mr. Parker. Well, I guess we better now for the temperature is rising—so until the next time—
