Save Small Grain Seed At Harvest

There was a widespread shortage of good small grain seed for planting last fall and the same promises to be true the coming fall, unless growers set aside and contract for sufficient good seed this summer for next year's crop.
 According to Dr. Emerson Collins, who is in charge of Extension agronomy at State College, sufficient supplies of good seed are produced in North Carolina but much of this good seed is fed to livestock because of the feed shortage. Plans for next year's seed supply must be made during the coming harvest season.

Collins recommends Fulcrum, Stanton, Letoria, and Vistograin varieties of oats in the outer areas, for the Coastal Plain, Letoria, Fulcrum, Stanton, Lee, Vistograin, and Letoria for the Piedmont; and Letoria and Fulcrum in the Mountain.
 According to the tests of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Surrie, Davidson, Randolph and Islet varieties of barley are best for all sections of the State.
 Corn, Redheart, and Hardred are best varieties of wheat for the Coastal Plain; Corn, Redheart, and Long for the Piedmont section; and Fulcrum and Thorne for the Mountains.
 Thrust eye gives best results in all sections.
 Growers should consult their county agents in selecting small grain varieties for grazing, according to Collins.
 He emphasizes that not only the tests this year but also those of other years definitely show that early seeding and fertilizer at planting greatly increase yields of grain. Heavy seeding is also important when the crop is used for grazing.

4 STEEL FACTS in one minute.

100,000 Tons of Steel
 To build a modern U. S. battleship requires the production of 10,000 tons of steel tubes and castings.

Industry Planned Much of Expansion
 Companies in the steel industry reached government dollar-for-dollar financing for wartime expansion of manufacturing capacity.

Steel One of Safest Industries
 America's steel industry has had safety record of any manufacturing or laboratory industry.

Fragmentation leads to an actually stronger steel spring made by rolling machines in American spring mills.

SURPRISE

... For Wartime DADS on their own SPECIAL Day
New Warmth of Understanding and Appreciation Are the Spirit of This Father's Day

WE know dad better these days. Along with the suffering and sacrifices of the war ... along with the red ink and red blood losses necessary for a win ... we've found a greater knowledge of ourselves and a greater value for the achievement of those closest to us. We appreciate what dad is doing. Whether he fights, or works, or farms for freedom ... we've seen the tirelessness and devotion and quiet sincerity with which he performs the task that means ... for him ... the security of his children. We are eager to give him whatever pleasure and surprise we can on his own day.

Thoughtfully Chosen, Quality Gifts to Really Please Him Are a Convincing Substance!

The thought with which we choose Dad's gift ... the way we pick what he very much wants ... in the style and quality that make wartime sense to him ... are a convincing way to show our greater appreciation. Maybe he wants a new hat, the shirt or pair of Sox. Maybe sports or his own tags for off duty hours are the perfect gift. Whatever the way he can best be pleased ... we have the very gifts to help you make your choice and show your thought for him on Father's Day.

THE SPIES
 Hi folks — well, we've been seeing quite a few things lately.
 What's coming of this one sided romance between "Boots" and Sam C. Let's hope it will be a success.
 Jimmy S. broke down and dated someone else Tuesday night—Marion Arthur! What does Beulah think of this?
 Now that Myre and Gene have left — what's going to happen to Jackie and Toots?
 Ah, girls! — "Pecor" was home this past week end and with him were two boys too! We wonder who got the most joy out of this, Marion, Jeanne, Avis, Sarah H. or Rachel M!!! Um—
 Who did we see Henry with the other night? Could it have been Peggy S.?
 Say girls — Bobby Groves is in town. Cute boy — eh, what?
 James H. and Earl left for New York Monday. Let's hope they have a good time. (We bet Jean W. will be lonely!)
 We can't make up our minds who "Makie" really likes. Once, it's Henry, then David then the next night who can tell?
 We also see that David can't decide whose heart he wants to take away with him.
 Myre didn't get back in time Sunday night so Jackie dated Charles N. Well, Charles, the road is clear, for Myre left Wednesday for the Navy. So here's luck.
 We hear that Billy Gene and Anabella are hitting it off right! Who does L. P. think of this?
 Well, taking it by age—Houston and Frances are not doing so well. We wonder—is it Houston or Frances that starts it all?
 Dickie makes love to all the girls but in the end it turns out to be "Nook."
 We really hope that Billy (M's cousin) will get to stay long—don't we girls?
 We hope Terry had a fine time Asheville last week. He seems every time he goes.
 Well, until next week, keep out of sight. Especially at night. For who you hear the wolf howl—
 We'll be on the prowl.

It is estimated that the number of students enrolled in teachers colleges has decreased from 175,000 to 72,000 in the last three years.
