of INTEREST to WOMEN

PHONES: Home 271; Office 96 MRS. A. E. PATTERSON.

MEMBERS OF HOME ARTS CLUB

Mrs. Tolly Shuford was hostess at a delightful meeting of the Home Arts Club last Tuesday afternoon at her apartment on West Mountain street.

The rooms were tastefully arranged with summer flowers.

Mrs. Garland Hill was in charge of the program which featured the writing of letters to members in stead of following the regular order. Each arriveman connected with members of the Club will receive a unique letter started by one member, with added paragraphs from other members.

The club voted to prepare a roll of honor and this roll will include nine brothers, eight sons and three husbands.

The hostess served delicious home made ice cream and cake.

Try This "Egg Shortcake" Recipe

American hens have set new records in production and eggs are cheap and plentiful now. They're nutritious, too, rich in iron, vitamins A, B, and D, and also contain calcium, phosphorus and thiamine. They can be used in breakfast, lunch or supper dishes.

The flexible, easily controlled gas-range is practical for cooking eggs, because they must be cooked slowly to prevent the protein from becoming tough. No longer are the advantages of modern gas cookery limited to city housewives, for home-makers everywhere, in cities, semi-rural or rural communities, are using liquefied petroleum gases as cooking fuel. This fuel, known as "bottled" or "tank" gas, is being delivered to nearly 2,000,000 homes a way from the city gas mains.

Protein-rich eggs are point-free and make satisfying main dishes. Try them crusted, in between layers of shortcake, as in this recipe:

Egg Shortcake

- 6 hard-boiled eggs
 - 5 tablespoons butter or substitute
 - 5 tablespoons flour
 - 1 1/2 cups milk
- Rich Shortcake Dough.
- Melt butter, blend in flour. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, then add sliced hard-boiled eggs and cook for a few minutes. Serve between layers of shortcake and garnish with quarters of egg, paprika and parsley.

Secrets Of Early Grazing Explained

Some of the secrets of good winter and spring grazing are high rates of seeding, earliness of planting, and good fertilization, say reports of county agents to the Extension Service officials at State College.

These points are covered in reports on the pasture practices of J. D. Parker of Moore county, Wash. Scott of Alamance, and John Harris of Anson.

Parker planted 4 bushels of oats, 30 pounds of clover, 40 pounds of Austrian winter peas, and 50 pounds of lespedeza per acre. Scott used 2 bushels of barley, 2 bushels of oats, and 8 pounds of crimson clover. Harris seeded 2 1/2 bushels of oats, barley, and rye, and 12 pounds of vetch.

Parker planted his oats, clover and peas on Sept. 11 and the lespedeza on Feb. 1. Scott seeded his mix-ture on September 15 and Harris on Sept. 28.

Parker fertilized his crop with 1500 pounds of lime, 500 pounds of superphosphate, 200 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 100 pounds of muriate of potash per acre. Scott used 500 pounds of 4-10-4 fertilizer at seeding and topdressed with tobacco stems. Harris applied barnyard manure at planting and topdressed with 150 pounds of nitrate of soda.

Scott got 22 days of grazing during November and December and about two months grazing in the spring. Moore reported that he began his grazing about two weeks late, April 11, with 26 head of cattle, 2 horses and 4 mules on 10 acres. On April 30, he weighed a 75 sheep and 110 goats to help graze off the field and they grazed for 11 days. Harris had 2 cows and 1 horse on 3 acres from November 15 to April 1, cut about 1 1/2 tons of hay and then planted the field.
