Teen-Agers Should Get Account Number

"Over 91,000,000 original social security account numbers have been issued since the Federal old age and survivors insurance program began in 1937," Miss Notley Maddox, manager of the Gastonia Office of the Social Security Administration said today. She added that new account numbers continue to be issued at a high rate due to the large number of teen-agers starting to work especially in part-time and vacation employment. Miss Maddox explained that when an individual starts out to get his first job in covered employment, he should apply for a social security account number at the nearest office of the Social Security Administration. The account number is issued to identify the wage record of each person working on jobs covered by the law and is needed when the worker or his family file claim for benefits under the program.

Only one account number may be assigned to a worker. If the original card is lost, a duplicate account number card can be obtained from any Social Security field office.

Application blanks for original or duplicate account cards can be obtained from any post office. The completed forms should be mailed to the Social Security Administration, Box 390, Gastonia, N. C.
